Pakistan-India See Agreement

To Resolve Rival Claims To Kashmir

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan, Friday (UPI) — India and Pakistan agreed Thursday "to resolve" their differences including their rival claims to Kashmir. The agreement was a triumph for Anglo-American diplomacy in the face of the Chinese Communist threat to the Indian subcontinent.

Informed sources regarded the agreement as a defeat for Communist China's attempts to lure Pakistan out of the Western alliance and for its reported efforts to sign a treaty of friendship and non-aggression with Pakistan.

A joint communique issued here and in the Indian capital of New Delhi was signed by President Mohammed Ayub Khan and Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru after intensive diplomatic efforts by Duncan Sandys of Britain and U. S. trouble shooter Averell Harriman.

The announcement said the two nations would begin talks at the ministerial level and that later Nehru and Ayub would meet personally to resolve the long standing differences revolving around the rich and beautiful state of Kashmir, claimed by both and now threatened by the Red armies of Peking.

Ruled By Hindu

India occupies about two-thirds of Kashmir, once a princely state before India and Pakistan won their independence from Great Britain. It is ruled by a Hindu governor but its population is mostly Moslem and Pakistan has said a plebiscite would give it to Pakistan. India has refused.

Sandys, British colonial secretary, and Harriman, U.S. assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs, flew to Rawalpindi from New Delhi to try to ease Pakistani fears that Western arms aid to India for use against Chinese aggression would not be used against Pakistan.

Feared Western Arms

Pakistan only feared Western arms would be used by India to seize the other one-third of Kashmir and threatened to end its membership in such Western alliances as CENTO and SEATO. India felt compelled to keep three of its crack divisions there instead of using them against the Chinese.

Sandys and Harriman, accompanied by top military commanders, conferred with Nehru at length and then with Ayub. Sandys returned to New Delhi to fill in Nehru on the talks and Thursday's agreement quickly followed.

Closer Check Ordered On Nuclear Crews

Pentagon Views Emotional Status As Safety Factor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon is ordering a closer check on the emotional status of men who handle nuclear weapons because:

—An Air Force sergeant, in 1958, threatened to commit suicide by shooting a pistol bullet into a nuclear bomb.

—An air policeman guarding a missile talked about an impulse to fire a pistol at the missile, which was on a pad, "to see what would happen."

—An airman nervous over marital trouble forgot to hook up a ground wire in an electric circuit and an intercontinental ballistic missile, without a warhead, was destroyed by fire and explosion.

An Air Force spokesman gave this background Thursday for Wednesday's announcement that all other services are being directed to adopt an Air Force safety check system on the human element among those who have access to nuclear weapons.

However, the spokesman said, none of the incidents cited could have produced a nuclear explosion. Only in the case of the sergeant who threatened suicide was a nuclear warhead involved. He didn't try to go through with the threat.

The sergeant had access to the bomb as a maintenance man for special weapons. Later, it was found he had previously undergone two psychiatric tests, without the doctors examining him being aware of his job. Regulations forbade him to disclose the secret nature of his work.

The Pentagon spokesman said even if the sergeant had fired a shot into the bomb, it would not have detonated the nuclear charge —at most he might have set off some of the TNT in the trigger mechanism.

If the policeman had followed his impulse to fire at the unarmed missile, the spokesman said, all that would have occurred would have been buckling and collapse of the missile because of leakage of air pressure used to retain the missile's shape.

JFK Meets Mikoyan

Cuban Crisis Chief Topic In Discussion

Talks Produced No Surprises In Washington

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy and Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan conferred at length Thursday on issues remaining in the way of a final Cuban settlement, but White House sources reported they made no genuine progress.

For about 3¼ hours, Kennedy and Mikoyan concentrated on problems stemming from differences over a final agreement on Cuba.

Afterward, a White House spokesman and Mikoyan both said representatives of both sides would continue negotiating in New York. As Mikoyan put it, they would negotiate "to finally settle the Cuban question."

Little Optimism

If he meant a final settlement was in immediate view, U.S. officials were less optimistic.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger issued this statement: "The President and Mr. Mikoyan reviewed a number of matters of common interest, with the princpal attention focused on the problem of Cuba. They agreed that, as a follow-up of this meeting, conversations would continue in New York between Ambassador (Adlai) Stevenson, Mr. (John J.) McCloy, and Mr. (Vassily) Kuznetsov."

The statement referred to the men directly involved in working out a Cuban solution. The United States says any satisfactory solution must include inspection on the ground in Cuba to verify that all Soviet offensive weapons have been removed and no new missiles or jet planes will be delivered.

No Real Progress

Government sources said no real progress had been made on individual issues, paramount among them the lack of agreement on U.N. inspection on the site in Cuba.

The atmosphere in the unusually lengthy meeting was described as frank and businesslike, lacking any air of tension. U.S. officials retained the belief that some progress had been made on the Cuban problem before Mikoyan arrived at the White House late in the afternoon. But they said afterward a number of points have yet to be resolved.

Kennedy and Mikoyan spent a little time on differences between Washington and Moscow on nuclear test and disarmament agreements, and dwelt briefly on the situation in Laos. White House informants maintained there was no discussion of Berlin.

Meets Rusk Today

Mikoyan lunches Friday with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, but government officials said he has no other meeting scheduled with Kennedy. The result of Mikoyan's two-day visit to Washington, after 24 days in Cuba, apparently was to shuttle negotiations back to the United Nations.

Mikoyan told newsmen through

U.S. Sells Mexico 20 Minesweepers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has turned over 20 surplus minesweepers to the Mexican government, but U. S. and Mexican authorities have refused to say whether they will be used against U. S. shrimp fishermen.

United Press International learned Thursday that the U.S. government turned title to the vessels over to Mexico Oct. 1. A Navy spokesman confirmed that five of the ships are "ready to leave" their berths at Orange, Tex., as soon as Mexican crews call for them.

Unidentified Mexican naval authorities have been quoted as saying they will be used against U.S. "shrimp pirates" from Texas ports.

State Department officials would not say whether they got assurances in the ship transfer agreement that the vessels will not be used against the Texas fishermen.

The Mexican ambassador to the United States, Antonio Carillo Flores, said the ships were not purchased chiefly to be used against U.S. fishermen. But he said he had not seen the purchase agreement and did not know if guarantees against such use were given.

Mexico bought the 20 World War II minesweepers for $16,000 each after a year's negotiations which were approved by the state and Defense Departments. The 180-foot vessels originally cost $1.8 million each.

All of the ships, fully-armed with three-inch guns and 20 and 40 millimeter cannon, are expected to be delivered "within two months," a Navy spokesman said.

Physician Says Miracle Saved Girl's Life

LONDON (AP)—The editor of a medical magazine said Thursday a miracle may have saved the life of Pauline Scott.

In an editorial in the Family Doctor, addressed to doctors all over Britain, Dr. Harvey Flack said:

"Cling to your scientific upbringing and only one conclusion is possible. The original diagnosis must have been wrong.

"Move from science to the humanities and you wonder. Was the diagnosis right and the end result modified completely by faith and prayer or good fortune?

"I don't know, and I know of nobody who does."

Six years ago doctors agreed she was doomed with an incurable blood disease.

In desperation, her doctor took her to a religious shrine and urged her to pray and ask for a blessing.

Reluctantly, the sick child agreed.

"When next I saw her," said Dr. Gabriel Fielding in an article in the Family Doctor, "three days after her trip to the shrine, she was in an oxygen tent."

After a blood transfusion, she was given only a few weeks to live.

Then, mysteriously, she began to get better.

Pauline recalls:

"I heard a nurse and a doctor talking at the foot of my bed when they thought I was asleep," Pauline recalls. "They said they didnt' think I would be alive by morning. I prayed to get better, and I think it was a miracle that did it."

Pauline's cure followed prayers at many churches in the Kentish town of Maidstone, where she lives, and a visit to the 12th century shrine at nearby Aylesford Priory.

All Plane Victims Not Identified

LIMA, Peru (UPI)—The government said Thursday it still has not been able to complete identification of the 97 victims of a Varig Airlines jet transport crash earlier this week because of the mutilated state of the bodies. Fifteen American were killed in the disaster.

The plane was en route from Rio de Janeiro to Los Angeles when it crashed into a hill outside Lima as it was coming in for a landing. The victims included a 10-man Cuban government mission headed by Cuban National Bank President Raul Cepero Bonilla.

"Most of the bodies will never be identified," morgue chief Jorge Glave said. "Many of them were incinerated."

30 Croatians Stage Raid On Slav Embassy

BAD GODESBURG, Germany (UPI)—A band of 30 Yugoslav immigrants demonstrating for a "free Croatia," shot their way into the Yugoslav mission here Thursday, wounded three persons inside and tried to burn the building with incendiary bombs.

Police said two demonstrators also were wounded in the assault, during which the Croatians ripped pictures of Yugoslav President Tito to shreds and waved banners demanding Croatia's freedom from Yugoslavia.

Police said 19 persons were arrested. Two were released when it was learned they were Turkish nationals.

The raid occurred on the first day of a national Yugoslav holiday marking that country's liberation from Nazi occupation.

The raiders forced entrance into the building in the Bonn suburb of Bad Godesburg, which served as the Yugoslav Embassy until West Germany broke off diplomatic relations with Yugoslavia five years ago.

Sweden has handled Yugoslav affairs here. But Yugoslavia has maintained a section of the old embassy.

Police said the invaders, who arrived in two buses, set the four-story building afire with incendiary bombs and an inflammable liquid.

Cultural Center Campaign Opens

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $100,000 private gift presented on a two-hour closed-circuit television extravaganza Thursday launched a national fund-raising drive to build a $30-million National Cultural Center here.

But there was some reported griping among defense contractors whose representatives complained they were pressured to attend a White House meeting at which President Kennedy urged them to support th drive.

As a galaxy of Hollywood, Broadway and concert stage stars waited across the country to get into the act, the big kickoff gift was announced by Roger Stevens, chairman of the center's board of trustees.

It came from a wealthy investment banker and oil operator, Col. C. Michael Paul. He's the Palm Beach, Fla., neighbor who lent President and Mrs. Kennedy his home for their 1961 Christmas vacation.

Cuba Ends Rationing Of Soviet Herring

HAVANA (UPI)—Cubans, deprived of their favorite meat for the past two years, were told Thursday they can buy all of the Soviet herring they like without ration books.

The price is 55 cents a pound, or about 8 cents more than Cubans have paid for meat in the past when they established a per capita consumption record for the hemisphere of 100 pounds a year.

Jayne Mansfield To Wed Producer

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)— Actress Jayne Mansfield announced Thursday she will marry an Italian film producer April 7 in Paris where she will make her permanent home.

The blonde glamour girl, in an exclusive interview with United Press International, put an end to rumors that she would reconcile with her estranged husband, muscleman Mickey Hargitay.

"I cannot name the man I will marry for legal reasons," she said. "But everything is settled."

The bridegroom-to-be is Italian producer Enrico Bomba who currently is married to another woman. Miss Mansfield would not deny that Bomba is her fiance.

Instead she identified him as, "the most wonderful man in the world with a beautiful soul and wonderful heart."

Joan Fontaine's Apartment Robbed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Police said Thursday burglars broke into the apartment of actress Joan Fontaine and stole an estimated $40,000 worth of jewels.

The theft was discovered early Thursday morning when an employe of the building where Miss Fontaine has her apartment noticed that her private elevator was not on the main floor.

The employe and Richard Liquoni, the building superintendent, investigated and found the door to her apartment open. The burglars had forced it sometime between 7:30 p.m. and 11:25 p.m., while the actress was absent.

Army In Berlin Stands Alert

BERLIN (UPI) — The U.S. Army Thursday night held its second night time exercise in two days to get soldiers here ready for a possible emergency.

It called out 1,000 soldiers of the city's 6,500 men American garrison at 10:30 p.m. and sent them to the posts they would defend if trouble breaks out.

The soldiers in the latest alert were military police, communication troops, and headquarters desk soldiers.

Thursday's exercise, as was the first, was described by the Army as a "routine operational readiness test to evaluate the ability to react to various situations."

Lockheed Workers End 2-Day Walkout

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — Striking union workers at giant Lockheed Aircraft Corp. returned to their jobs Thursday at government request, ending a two-day walkout. But they said the dispute that caused the strike was far from over.

The work-resumption agreement came after President Kennedy invoked the Taft-Hartley Law Wednesday and set up a special board to study the months-long contract squabble.

The board was ordered to report to the President by Monday its findings in the bitter battle involving critical defense work.

Both management and the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists avoided direct mention of the dispute's central issue, the union shop, when announcing the work resumption.

Of the major aerospace firms, only Lockheed has refused to submit the union shop issue to a vote. North American Aviation, General Dynamics and Ryan Aeronautical agreed to the vote and their employes failed to give it the necessary two-thirds approval, although they did achieve a majority.

Robert R. Simpson, IAM international representative on the scene to coordinate negotiations, predicted the workers would strike again at the end of a possible 80-day cooling off period if the union shop issue was not submitted to a vote.

The IAM agreed to send its members back to work temporarily under their old contract. The average base pay under the old agreement was $2.95 hourly.

Algeria Outlaws Communists

The decision, disclosed by the information minister, Mohamed Hadj Hamou, at a news conference, appeared to mean a veering away from a pro-Eastern position to a more truly neutral policy, if not a somewhat pro-Western attitude.

It seemed to reflect realization within the leadership of the young republic that Algeria cannot count on the Eastern bloc for direly needed economic aid, but must rather look to the West, and above all to France, for help.

Hamou said the decision was reached several days ago by Premier Ahmed Ben Bella's government. Only recently, Ben Bella went out of his way to emphasize friendship for Cuban leader Fidel Castro, with laudatory statements and a visit to Havana.

The Communist ban was announced on the eve of top-level negotiations between Algeria and France for large-scale financial and technical aid. Algerian Foreign Minister Mohammed Khemisti is flying to Paris on Friday at the head of a large official delegation to open the negotiations.

Undertaker Facing Charges Of Fraud In Connection With Infant Burials

GREENSBORO, N. C. (UPI) — The state concluded its presentation Thursday in the bizarre case of an undertaker charged with fraud in connection with infant burials.

Nathaniel Hargett Sr. of Greensboro pleaded innocent to a charge of fraud in agreeing to make arrangements for burial of the day-old son of Willie Poole in July, 1961. Appearing as the state's chief witness, Poole testified in superior court that he had been shown a new, gray casket with silk on the inside and told the baby would be given "a decent, Christian burial."

Circumstances described as almost incredible led to the discovery five months later of the child's body in a crudely - marked grave on property owned by the Hargett family in a rural area east of here. The infant had been placed in an unfinished wooden box along with six other infants. All were wrapped in newspaper and piled one on top of the other in the box.

The grave was discovered when rabbit hunters telephoned the Guilford County Sheriff's Department Dec. 18, 1961, to announce that someone was trying to bury a small foreign car on the Hargett property.

Two deputies discovered a series of crude graves nearby. One of the graves, the one figuring in the trial, had been partially dug up and exposed by animals. The officers saw the box and opened it.

The elder Hargett lost his embalming license several months ago. However, other members of his family still operate the business.

By GAYLORD P. GODWIN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Isn't it sad when a little boy can't find a place to play?

The President thought it was an important question too and passed it on to Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall. They told the youngster they understood his problem, and while they had no immediate solution, they were working on it.

The letter came from Scott Peter Turner. Carefully printed on a sheet of typical school paper, it said:

"Dear Mr. President, We have no place to go when we want to go out in the canyon because there are (sic) going to build houses so could you setaside (sic) some land where we could play? Thank you four (sic) listening, Love Scott."

Scott's father, Maurice, an insurance man, slipped his own letter in the envelope destined for the White House. He said he wanted to "emphasize the honest motivation which drove him (his son) to seek help from the highest power in the land."

The father explained his son's "canyons" was open land where the boy previously hunted for lizards, and roamed by himself. But now the space had been taken over

Jayne Mansfield To Wed Producer

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)— Actress Jayne Mansfield announced Thursday she will marry an Italian film producer April 7 in Paris where she will make her permanent home.

The blonde glamour girl, in an exclusive interview with United Press International, put an end to rumors that she would reconcile with her estranged husband, muscleman Mickey Hargitay.

"I cannot name the man I will marry for legal reasons," she said. "But everything is settled."

The bridegroom-to-be is Italian producer Enrico Bomba who currently is married to another woman. Miss Mansfield would not deny that Bomba is her fiance.

Instead she identified him as, "the most wonderful man in the world with a beautiful soul and wonderful heart."

Joan Fontaine's Apartment Robbed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Police said Thursday burglars broke into the apartment of actress Joan Fontaine and stole an estimated $40,000 worth of jewels.

The theft was discovered early Thursday morning when an employe of the building where Miss Fontaine has her apartment noticed that her private elevator was not on the main floor.

The employe and Richard Liquoni, the building superintendent, investigated and found the door to her apartment open. The burglars had forced it sometime between 7:30 p.m. and 11:25 p.m., while the actress was absent.

Army In Berlin Stands Alert

BERLIN (UPI) — The U.S. Army Thursday night held its second night time exercise in two days to get soldiers here ready for a possible emergency.

It called out 1,000 soldiers of the city's 6,500 men American garrison at 10:30 p.m. and sent them to the posts they would defend if trouble breaks out.

The soldiers in the latest alert were military police, communication troops, and headquarters desk soldiers.

Thursday's exercise, as was the first, was described by the Army as a "routine operational readiness test to evaluate the ability to react to various situations."

Lockheed Workers End 2-Day Walkout

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — Striking union workers at giant Lockheed Aircraft Corp. returned to their jobs Thursday at government request, ending a two-day walkout. But they said the dispute that caused the strike was far from over.

The work-resumption agreement came after President Kennedy invoked the Taft-Hartley Law Wednesday and set up a special board to study the months-long contract squabble.

The board was ordered to report to the President by Monday its findings in the bitter battle involving critical defense work.

Both management and the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists avoided direct mention of the dispute's central issue, the union shop, when announcing the work resumption.

Of the major aerospace firms, only Lockheed has refused to submit the union shop issue to a vote. North American Aviation, General Dynamics and Ryan Aeronautical agreed to the vote and their employes failed to give it the necessary two-thirds approval, although they did achieve a majority.

Robert R. Simpson, IAM international representative on the scene to coordinate negotiations, predicted the workers would strike again at the end of a possible 80-day cooling off period if the union shop issue was not submitted to a vote.

The IAM agreed to send its members back to work temporarily under their old contract. The average base pay under the old agreement was $2.95 hourly.

Algeria Outlaws Communists

The decision, disclosed by the information minister, Mohamed Hadj Hamou, at a news conference, appeared to mean a veering away from a pro-Eastern position to a more truly neutral policy, if not a somewhat pro-Western attitude.

It seemed to reflect realization within the leadership of the young republic that Algeria cannot count on the Eastern bloc for direly needed economic aid, but must rather look to the West, and above all to France, for help.

Hamou said the decision was reached several days ago by Premier Ahmed Ben Bella's government. Only recently, Ben Bella went out of his way to emphasize friendship for Cuban leader Fidel Castro, with laudatory statements and a visit to Havana.

The Communist ban was announced on the eve of top-level negotiations between Algeria and France for large-scale financial and technical aid. Algerian Foreign Minister Mohammed Khemisti is flying to Paris on Friday at the head of a large official delegation to open the negotiations.

By GAYLORD P. GODWIN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Isn't it sad when a little boy can't find a place to play?

The President thought it was an important question too and passed it on to Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall. They told the youngster they understood his problem, and while they had no immediate solution, they were working on it.

The letter came from Scott Peter Turner. Carefully printed on a sheet of typical school paper, it said:

"Dear Mr. President, We have no place to go when we want to go out in the canyon because there are (sic) going to build houses so could you setaside (sic) some land where we could play? Thank you four (sic) listening, Love Scott."

Scott's father, Maurice, an insurance man, slipped his own letter in the envelope destined for the White House. He said he wanted to "emphasize the honest motivation which drove him (his son) to seek help from the highest power in the land."

The father explained his son's "canyons" was open land where the boy previously hunted for lizards, and roamed by himself. But now the space had been taken over

Undertaker Facing Charges Of Fraud In Connection With Infant Burials

GREENSBORO, N. C. (UPI) — The state concluded its presentation Thursday in the bizarre case of an undertaker charged with fraud in connection with infant burials.

Nathaniel Hargett Sr. of Greensboro pleaded innocent to a charge of fraud in agreeing to make arrangements for burial of the day-old son of Willie Poole in July, 1961. Appearing as the state's chief witness, Poole testified in superior court that he had been shown a new, gray casket with silk on the inside and told the baby would be given "a decent, Christian burial."

Circumstances described as almost incredible led to the discovery five months later of the child's body in a crudely - marked grave on property owned by the Hargett family in a rural area east of here. The infant had been placed in an unfinished wooden box along with six other infants. All were wrapped in newspaper and piled one on top of the other in the box.

The grave was discovered when rabbit hunters telephoned the Guilford County Sheriff's Department Dec. 18, 1961, to announce that someone was trying to bury a small foreign car on the Hargett property.

Two deputies discovered a series of crude graves nearby. One of the graves, the one figuring in the trial, had been partially dug up and exposed by animals. The officers saw the box and opened it.

The elder Hargett lost his embalming license several months ago. However, other members of his family still operate the business.

Pope Shows Considerable Improvement

By EUGENE LEVIN

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Ailing Pope John XXIII was reported feeling much better Thursday night in his bout with anemia and even got out of bed for a few hours and walked about his apartment in the apostolic palace, high Vatican sources reported.

The Vatican had appealed to Roman Catholics around the world to pray for the 81-year-old pontiff, who was proving a restless patient for his doctors.

The encouraging report that Pope John was able to get up and had no fever came after a communique disclosed officially for the first time that he had been stricken with intense anemia provoked by long-standing stomach trouble.

The tone of the communique clearly indicated concern about the Pope's illness among Vatican officials. But the aged ruler of the Roman Catholic Church told his doctors—trying to persuade him to take it easy—that he wanted to get back to work.

The communique made no mention of prostate trouble nor say specifically how serious the pontiff's condition is regarded.

After two days of conflicting reports about the Pope's health, the Vatican issued a statement saying doctors had advised him to curtail his activities.

The statement referred to an "accentuating of symptoms of a gastropathy, for which the Pope has been for some time under necessary medical and dietary treatment, and which has provoked a rather intense anemia."

Gastrophaty is a general term for stomach disorders. Anemia is a blood deficiency.

Pope John's personal physician —Prof. Antonio Gasbarrini, a specialist in internal medicine who is just a year younger than the pontiff—called at the apostolic palace in the morning and again in the afternoon.

Sources reported that during the afternoon visit Gasbarrini was accompanied by Dr. Pietro Valdoni, one of Italy's top surgeons.

Rumors circulated earlier in the week that the Pope might undergo surgery after the Ecumenical Council recesses Dec. 8. The rumors were denied by Vatican sources.

The Vatican Ecumenical Council was in recess as it is every Thursday. But many council fathers went to the Vatican anyway to seek information about the Pope's condition.

Then he repeated essentially the same thing in front of television cameras outside the door to the west wing of the White House.

"And we have agreed," Mikoyan said, "the President will issue certain instructions to his representatives in New York, and our government will issue instructions to ours, to carry on negotiations regarding final settlement of the Cuban question."

Mikoyan spoke through an interpreter. But at the end of his brief TV remarks he said, "Thank you, goodby," in English.

Nine Members Of Family Die As Fire Consumes Their Home In Hunting Area

RENOVAO, Pa. (UPI) —Nine members of one family were killed Thursday by a fire which trapped them in their sleep and razed their frame house in an isolated hunting area.

The flames which leveled the two-story home of Walter Brown, 41, a coal miner, spread so quickly they defied the attempts of a hunter to aid the victims. The heat was so intense it was hours before firemen could rake through the smouldering rubble and recover the bodies.

The dead were identified as Brown; his wife, Wilma, 37, and their children, Arlene, 15; Leona, 14; Daniel, 10; Susan, 8; Linda, 7, Nancy, 5, and Rodney, 3.

Three other children of the Browns escaped the blaze at nearby Keating. Charles, 17, was not home at the time. His sister, Sandra, 17, lives with another family, while another, Mrs. Edwin Bailey is married and lives in Tamarack.

The flames, lighting up the remote village, were discovered by John Hutchinson, 45, of Faust Valley, near Greensburg, Pa., and Thomas Roth, Mechanicsburg, who were in a hunting cabin 200 yards away.

"The porch was on fire as we got there," Hutchinson said. "I searched through the first floor and didn't find anyone. Then, I shouted up the stairway to the second floor. I got no response. The flames then drove me out."

Roth, meanwhile, dashed to the Keating Hotel nearby and asked that an alarm be turned in.

Hutchinson said later that when he got no reply to his cries he assumed the occupants had fled. On the way out, he turned off the vales of bottled gas on the porch.

The cause of the blaze was not immediately determined. Officials said it was a stove-heated dwelling.

By the time two fire companies from here made the 12 mile trip to the Brown home, the structure was engulfed in flames. Bottled gas on the porch exploded as firemen hooked up hoselines to pump water from Sinnamahoning Creek.

The blaze was the second tragic fire involving multiple deaths in northeastern Pennsylvania in two days. Three young girls, all members of the same family, burned to death Wednesday in a fire which destroyed a two-story frame house at Harvey's Lake near Wilkes-Barre.

YESTERDAY REVISITED — Seventh-graders in Vincennes, Ind., studying pioneer history were invited to bring in relics of the period. The spectacles that Sharon Gillespie, 12, is modeling are 125 years old. Since bifocals were rare during pioneer days, "specs" were worn on the end of the nose and wearer looked over them when not doing close work.

Western Nations Accused Of Helping Persecute People Who Fought Nazis

BERLIN (AP)—The Soviet Union accused the three Western powers Thursday of helping West Germany persecute people who fought the Nazis.

Soviet notes were delivered in Moscow to the United States, Britain and France complaining about a court hearing which opened Thursday in West Berlin.

The Federal Administrative Court is considering a plea from the West German government for banning of the Association of Victims of the Nazis. Counsel for the government said the group had been taken over by Communists and was engaged in unconstitucnal activity. They alleged the group, which claims 30,000 members, is directed by the Red regime in East Germany.

The Soviet notes added weight to a massive propaganda campaign by Communists against the court action. For weeks the controlled press of the East bloc, with some help from Western European sympathizers, has been blasting away at the Bonn government, accusing it of trying to silence anti-Nazis who criticize it.

The government's charge is that the association is carrying on the activity of the Communist party, banned in West Germany since 1956. This assertion was booed by former European anti-Nazi resistance fighters who packed the public benches.

The government lawyers said the association was Communist-founded in 1946 throughout Germany and abandoned its charitable role to become a political organization in 1947. They pointed out that the organization was dissolved in East Germany in 1953 on the ground it was no longer needed.

The Soviets backed up the East German regime in complaining of the presence in West Berlin of the court, one of several federal institutions located in the city. The Reds contend West Berlin is on the territory of East Germany and not part of the West German republic.

U.S. Judge Says Air Force Using Gestapo Methods

BOIS, Idaho (AP)—A federal judge said today there was a feeling of use of "regular Gestapo methods" by the Air Force which has charged an airman with murder after he was released by a state court of the same charge.

But U.S. Judge Chase A. Clark said he couldn't do anything about releasing Gerald M. Anderson, 24, San Diego, Calif., from Air Force jurisdiction.

A U.S. attorney said that the civil rights division of the Department of Justice planned an investigation of the Anderson case.

Judge Clark, presiding over a hearing aimed at releasing Anderson from Air Force jurisdiction, delayed until Dec. 5 the time in which the military must explain its reasons for jailing Anderson.

Anderson is accused of killing Nancy J. Johnson and her 2-year-old son, Danny, in Mountain Home, 42 miles east of here, last April. Anderson was stationed at Mountain Home Air Force Base at the time.

Anderson was arrested last April, questioned by the Air Force, then turned over to civilian authorities for prosecution. He was ordered freed Monday by Judge Merlin S. Young after another man told authorities he killed Mrs. Johnson and her son.

Anderson, protesting innocence, said he signed the confession under duress.

Robert McLaughlin, one of Anderson's attorneys, asked Judge Clark to order the Air Force to free Anderson and place him in custody of the U.S. marshal.

The judge said he believed it would be proper procedure "unless there is some ulterior motive on the part of the Air Force."

Clark said normally the military turns such cases over to state or federal court for prosecution.

"They may have their own personal reasons," the judge said. "They may think they have a better chance to convict by court-martial than they would in state courts or federal courts.

"Another thing that worries me about this man being in jail is that it causes concern to a great many people," he added.

U.S. Judge Says Air Force Using Gestapo Methods

BOIS, Idaho (AP)—A federal judge said today there was a feeling of use of "regular Gestapo methods" by the Air Force which has charged an airman with murder after he was released by a state court of the same charge.

But U.S. Judge Chase A. Clark said he couldn't do anything about releasing Gerald M. Anderson, 24, San Diego, Calif., from Air Force jurisdiction.

A U.S. attorney said that the civil rights division of the Department of Justice planned an investigation of the Anderson case.

Judge Clark, presiding over a hearing aimed at releasing Anderson from Air Force jurisdiction, delayed until Dec. 5 the time in which the military must explain its reasons for jailing Anderson.

Anderson was arrested last April, questioned by the Air Force, then turned over to civilian authorities for prosecution. He was ordered freed Monday by Judge Merlin S. Young after another man told authorities he killed Mrs. Johnson and her son.

Anderson, protesting innocence, said he signed the confession under duress.

Robert McLaughlin, one of Anderson's attorneys, asked Judge Clark to order the Air Force to free Anderson and place him in custody of the U.S. marshal.

The judge said he believed it would be proper procedure "unless there is some ulterior motive on the part of the Air Force."

Clark said normally the military turns such cases over to state or federal court for prosecution.

"They may have their own personal reasons," the judge said. "They may think they have a better chance to convict by court-martial than they would in state courts or federal courts.

"Another thing that worries me about this man being in jail is that it causes concern to a great many people," he added.

U.S. Career Men Resisted Warnings Of Reds In Cuba

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

NEW YORK (AP)—State Department career men and the Central Intelligence Agency resisted warnings of Red influence in the Cuban revolution and share much of the blame for the Communist takeover there, says the U.S. ambassador who watched Fidel Castro seize power.

The CIA and State Department helped to "overthrow the Batista dictatorship which was pro-American and anti-Communist, only to install the Castro dictatorship which was Communist and anti-American," says former Ambassador Earl E. T. Smith in his book "The Fourth Floor," to be published Thursday by Random House.

The "Fourth-Floor" people are the so-called desk men, career officers in the State Department. The fifth floor refers to the top State Department level.

"Policy decisions on Cuban affairs were determined on the fourth floor of the State Department, where influential persons believed in the revolution and hoped for its success," Smith writes. "So far as I know, no definite policy governing our attitude to the friendly government of Cuba was set on the fifth floor."

More than that, Smith asserts in a criticism of the State Department's structure, no president, no secretary of state, no matter how purposeful, can proect the United States from the day to day operations of the lower officials in the second echelon.

Discussing the CIA, Smith says that when he took over the Havana Embassy in July 1957, he asked the CIA chief there to review figures on Communist party strength, recalling that in 1946 the Communists had polled more than 120,000 votes. The embassy chief, he says, estimated there were only 10,000 card-carriers and 20,000 sympathizers in 1957.

Striking Miners Keep Lid On 200 Small Operations

By United Press International

Members of the United Mine Workers union kept a tight lid on some 200 small coal operations, most of them in about seven southern West Virginia counties, while UMW officials attempted to get owners to come up with back payments on 40-cent-a-ton royalties.

UMW presidents Raymond Lewis of District 17 in Charleston and George Titler of District 29 in Beckley said they were working on steps to end a 12-day dispute which has idled about 1,500 striking miners. Most were employed by mines in Raleigh, McDowell, Mercer, Mingo, Greenbrier, Wyoming and Fayette counties.

The miners started walking out last week to enforce a provision of the UMW contract which requires operators to deposit 40-cents-a-ton into the UMW Welfare and Retirement Fund. The miners resorted to strikes after the UMW cancelled benefits to miners working for operators who were delinquent in their royalty payments.

"No one is working and everything is closed," Titler said Thursday. "The situation is status quo in this district."

County Suspends Unlicensed Doctor

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — Dr. Gaston DeLemos, a part-time psychiatrist for the Montgomery County Health Department, has been suspended for lack of a medical license.

William J. Peeples, county health officer, said Thursday the doctor, a native of Portugal, was relieved of duty Monday when county authorities learned he had failed to pass the Maryland Medical Board examination.

The doctor had been with the department about four years.

Vicki Storm Is Indicted For Murder

Dancer Accused In Death Of Dr. DeLeon

BALTIMORE (AP) — Attorneys for a 20-year-old Baltimore stripper, indicted by a grand jury Thursday in the slaying of a Filipino doctor, sought to have her released on bail only hours after the indictment was returned.

The jury returned an indictment against Maxine Gross, known professionally as Vicki Storm, within 20 minutes after Lt. Anton Glover of the Baltimore Police homicide bureau presented police records on the case. The 110-pound, 5-foot brunette dancer is accused of killing Dr. DeoGracias DeLeon in a Baltimore hotel room Sunday.

The body of the 29-year-old physician, who was completing his final year as chief resident in obstetrics and gynecology at St. Joseph's Hospital, was found in the shower stall of his room at the Mayfair Hotel under a pile of burning bed clothing.

Police arrested Miss Gross in her first-floor room at the hotel shortly after DeLeon's body was discovered. She has admitted spending Saturday evening nightclubbing with the doctor and later visiting his hotel room, but denies killing him, police said.

Her attorneys pressed through a habeas corpus writ Thursday to have her released on bond. An earlier attempt had failed. Judge Dulany Foster set 2:30 p.m. Friday for a hearing on the motion.

Police meanwhile continued their search for a second suspect. They contend that the Gross girl could not have committed the crime alone, since the dead man's body was dragged from the floor of DeLeon's room to the shower stall.

So far, police have questioned two other women and a part-time cab driver in connection with the death.

by an organized playground and land pre-empted by home construction.

"In complete defeat, anger, and frustration he ran home, demanded paper and pencil and put a determined hand to his letter of protest," the father said.

Turner concluded:

"In building our progressive world of supervised play and sterilized playthings we seem to have forgotten that a youth needs trees and frogs and earth with ants in it—and time for uninterrupted observations of the path he treads.

"Surely amidst the concrete of man there should be space allotted for the green stuff of mother nature, since both are builders of the needs of men. You and I realize the problems of far graver nature that must occupy the men of our government. But isn't it nostalgically sad when, in an era of seemingly intellectual advancement and highly civilized progress, a little boy can't find a place to play?"

Udall replied:

"Dear Scott: The President sent your letter to me to answer because the feelings you expressed so well in your letter are his feelings too, and I am the man he has appointed to try to correct the conditions which are making you so unhappy.

"President Kennedy and I have a great awareness of the needs you feel — the need to be able to hunt lizards and follow ants and maybe just lie in the sun on your back and watch the changing shapes of clouds—all alone."

Udall told the boy that he, too, grew up in canyon land. He added:

"We are trying as hard as we can to do just what you ask—'to set aside some land' where you can play—not in groups with supervision, but just roaming around by yourself and finding out how you relate to the earth and sky. It's a thing you can only do by yourself and it's a very important thing.

"I am more sorry that I can say that you have lost your canyon playground. I hope you will be able to find another one not too far away.

"Thank you so much for your letter. It is one of the nicest we have received."

Trading Suspended

Trading in General Plywood stock was suspended three times on the American Stock Exchange in New York Thursday because traders could not match a flood of sell orders. The pressure on the stock of the Louisville Company was attributed to a published report that General Plywood was preparing to accept an out-of-court settlement in its patent infringement suit against U.S. Plywood Corp.

FBI Names Third Man In $102,176 Bank Holdup

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—The FBI named Jerry Clarence Rush Thursday as the third participant in the $102,176 holdup of the Perth Amboy National Bank.

Rush, who is still at large, was described by the FBI as 26 years old, single, and a native of Baltimore.

R. W. Bachman, special agent in charge of the FBI at Newark, said Rush escaped from the Maryland State Penitentiary July 7, 1962, together with William Louis Schech, 28.

Schech and Doyle Delmar Royal, 27, were charged with the robbery by the FBI Wednesday and arrested in Las Vegas, Nev., early Thursday.

Bachman also disclosed that FBI agents in Las Vegas arrested Lorraine Constance Bowie of Baltimore and charged her with being an accessory after the fact in the robbery. She was held in $10,000 bail pending her removal to New Jersey.

The FBI said Rush was serving a 17½ year prison sentence for larceny and assault with intent to murder at the time of his escape.

Fire Sweeps Refining Plant

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Fire swept the main processing unit of the Elk Refining Co. bulk plant at nearby Falling Rock Thursday, causing damage estimated by Plant Supt. Paul Emery at about $250,000.

There were no injuries.

Emery said the blaze apparently broke out in a furnace used to distill crude oil when a pipe carrying the heated petroleum ruptured.

About 125 men are employed at the refinery located along the Elk River about 15 miles northeast of Charleston.

League Activities Are Increased Here

Praise for the voluntary help from individuals, groups, local and state agencies plus a review of activities which show an increase of 500 patients in the past 10 years, highlighted the annual meeting of the officers and directors of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children held recently at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

All officers were reelected. They are:

U. S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall, president; George A. Schwarzenbach, vice president, J. William Hunt, secretary, and John H. Mosner, treasurer.

Directors are Beall, Schwarzenbach, Hunt, Mosner, G. William Bibby, Joseph F. Stakem, John M. Robb, Dr. W. Royce Hodges, Elmer J. Reinhard, Judge Morgan C. Harris, John J. McMullen, William R. Carscaden and William A. Gunter.

Bibby was named chairman of the membership committee; Schwarzenbach chairman of the Easter Seal Sale campaign and Stakem publicity chairman.

Sen. Beall paid tribute to the late Dr. George E. Bennett, who died recently, pointing out his dedication to the cause of crippled children in Allegany County and the fact he helped organize the first clinics here.

The many individuals, groups and agencies who helped make the year a success were likewise praised by the president. Mention was made of local and state Health Departments, the Allegany County Board of Education and vocational rehabilitation, and the swimming activity for League patients which is a cooperative effort of Lawrence Brehm, the Optimist Club, Red Cross and Central YMCA.

Reports were also heard from the secretary and treasurer. It was noted that the League worked within its budget during the year and emphasis placed on the fact the League is supported solely by voluntary contributions.

For the past year a speech therapist has been employed by the League and the average case load has been between 90 and 100.

During the past 10 years an increase of 570 patients has been noted in the annual case load of the League. In 1952, it was pointed out that the case load was 1,006 compared to 1,576 for 1962.

Last week, an orthopedic clinic at the league conducted by Dr. E. Davis Weinberg of Children's Hospital, Baltimore, had 288 patients. There were 54 new patients and 34 were discharged. The week previous, Dr. Winthrop Phelps' orthopedic clinic had 70 patients and eight of these were new.

Dr. Eaton will return here January 11-12 and again May 16-17. Dr. Weinberg will conduct another clinic in March.

League Activities Are Increased Here

Praise for the voluntary help from individuals, groups, local and state agencies plus a review of activities which show an increase of 500 patients in the past 10 years, highlighted the annual meeting of the officers and directors of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children held recently at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

All officers were reelected. They are:

U. S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall, president; George A. Schwarzenbach, vice president, J. William Hunt, secretary, and John H. Mosner, treasurer.

Directors are Beall, Schwarzenbach, Hunt, Mosner, G. William Bibby, Joseph F. Stakem, John M. Robb, Dr. W. Royce Hodges, Elmer J. Reinhard, Judge Morgan C. Harris, John J. McMullen, William R. Carscaden and William A. Gunter.

Bibby was named chairman of the membership committee; Schwarzenbach chairman of the Easter Seal Sale campaign and Stakem publicity chairman.

Sen. Beall paid tribute to the late Dr. George E. Bennett, who died recently, pointing out his dedication to the cause of crippled children in Allegany County and the fact he helped organize the first clinics here.

The many individuals, groups and agencies who helped make the year a success were likewise praised by the president. Mention was made of local and state Health Departments, the Allegany County Board of Education and vocational rehabilitation, and the swimming activity for League patients which is a cooperative effort of Lawrence Brehm, the Optimist Club, Red Cross and Central YMCA.

Reports were also heard from the secretary and treasurer. It was noted that the League worked within its budget during the year and emphasis placed on the fact the League is supported solely by voluntary contributions.

For the past year a speech therapist has been employed by the League and the average case load has been between 90 and 100.

During the past 10 years an increase of 570 patients has been noted in the annual case load of the League. In 1952, it was pointed out that the case load was 1,006 compared to 1,576 for 1962.

Last week, an orthopedic clinic at the league conducted by Dr. E. Davis Weinberg of Children's Hospital, Baltimore, had 288 patients. There were 54 new patients and 34 were discharged. The week previous, Dr. Winthrop Phelps' orthopedic clinic had 70 patients and eight of these were new.

Dr. Eaton will return here January 11-12 and again May 16-17. Dr. Weinberg will conduct another clinic in March.

Bar Association Dinner Is Held

Chief Judge Frederick W. Brune of the Maryland Court of Appeals was the speaker at the annual Ladies Night dinner of the Allegany County Bar Association last night at the Cumberland Country Club.

Guests at the dinner included Attorney General Thomas B. Finan, Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris, Associate Judges W. Earle Cobey, Stuart Hamill, D. Kenneth McLaughlin and Irvin Rutledge, of the Fourth Judicial Circuit.

Local Industrial Plants Get Foreign Aid Orders

U. S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall announced that foreign aid-financed orders for $163,719 worth of industrial goods have been placed with two Cumberland plants, according to the Agency for Industrial Development.

Suit Is Filed

A damage suit was docketed in Circuit Court yesterday as the result of a highway accident September 12, 1961 at the intersection of U.S. Route 40 and Winchester Road.

The declaration, filed by Milton Gerson and Peter Carpenti, attorneys for Donald Michael Byrne, 120 Polk Street, against Louis Dale Jenkins, 531 O'Neil Street, states that Byrne suffered injuries and incurred hospital and medical expenses.

The overseas transactions are made through provisions of the U. S. Economic Assistance Program which emphasizes the procurement from American suppliers, thus keeping two-thirds of AID dollars in the U. S. economy.

The Cumberland production includes $90,106 of orders for tires and tubes going to various firms in Turkey from Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, and $73,613 worth of acetate yarn made for purchasers in South Korea by Amcelle Plant of Celanese Fibers Company.

The shipments bear a district distinctive colored emblem to inform people of the assisted nations and the goods result from the U. S. aid program.

Concert Set For Sunday

The College-Community Orchestra will appear at its first concert of the season Sunday at 3:15 p. m. in Compton Auditorium of Frostburg State Teachers College.

The orchestra is directed by Marvin von Deck and is composed equally of college students and community residents.

The program will include "Chrismas" concerto by Corelli; Schubert's "Symphony No. 8" (unfinished); Russian folk songs by Liadov; and the "Semiramide Overture" by Rossini.

Soloists in the concerto are Miss Christie McDonald and Mrs. Albert Cedel, violins; Rudolph Winkler, cello; and Miss Dorothy Kiiffner, organ. Miss McDonald is also concertmistress of the orchestra.

Demonstration Agents Discuss Family Program

An all-day conference was held at the Court House yesterday by home demonstration agents from Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties with a Federal Extension Service official and two state Extension Service officials.

The conference discussions included a long-range program in home demonstration work, particularly on plans for work with families and communities during 1963.

The home demonstration agents from the three counties will consider the resources in their counties, both human and material, which will be available for making major contributions to educational programs in home economics and related areas, according to Miss Margaret Oliver, home demonstration agent leader in Maryland.

Miss Beatrice Judkins, program leader for the Northeastern states of the Federal Extension Service, attended the session.

Will Of Man Dead 31 Years Probated

The will of a man who has been dead more than 31 years finally was probated Tuesday in Allegany County Orphans Court.

His wife, Mrs. Phoebe Annie Snelson, Mt. Savage, who qualified as executrix, was the sole beneficiary. She told court attaches that she didn't think it was necessary to have the will probated since everything was left to her.

Now that Mrs. Snelson is getting ready to have her own will prepared, she was advised that she should have her husband's will probated first to establish her right to the property.

Woman's Estate Will Benefit Home Inmates

An 83-year-old local woman who died here November 16 left her clothing, furniture, linens, blankets and other personal effects to the county commissioners for the benefit of the inmates of the County Home.

The will of Mrs. Vertie M. Kempner, who lived at 127 Hanover Street at the time of her death, was probated Tuesday in Allegany County Orphans Court.

Mrs. Kempner also left $100 to the Allegany County Chapter of the American Cancer Society as well as cash bequests to John G. Powers, Bessie Hoffman and Nell Talley. The rest of her estate was left to Matthew J. Mullaney, her attorney, who qualified as executor under a $500 bond. Her will was dated August 3, 1961.

Also probated yesterday was the will of Mrs. Rosiana Madera, formerly of Frostburg, who died October 31 in Washington. Two of her sons, Samuel and Mario Madera, both of Silver Spring, qualified as executors under a $1,000 bond.

Mrs. Madera's will, dated July 22, 1954, provided cash bequests to two daughters and three other sons. Her property in Frostburg was bequeathed to Samuel and Mario and all of the rest was left to Samuel.

Another will probated yesterday was that of Mrs. Nora Marie Reynolds, who was a 41-year-old resident of 516 Maryland Avenue at the time of her death November 22. Her attorney, Julius E. Schindler, qualified as executor under a $1,000 bond.

Mrs. Reynolds provided that her estate should be converted to cash. One-fourth of the proceeds will go to a daughter, Miss Joyce Eileen Reynolds. The other three-quarters of her estate was left in trust to her brother, Charles J. Cunningham, Jr., for the benefit of her three younger children who are to be placed in a home until they reach the age of 18. Her will was dated November 27, 1961.

Also probated yesterday was the will of Mrs. Jennie DiBacco, also known as Mrs. Josephine DiBacco, who was a 75-year-old resident of 310 Decatur Street at the time of her death November 20. Her daughter, Mrs. Mary DiBacco Cady of Pasadena, Md., qualified as executrix under a $500 bond.

She provided a cash bequest for a daughter, Miss Elizabeth DiBacco, now of Baltimore, and left the rest of her estate to Mrs. Cady. The will was dated February 16, 1939.

Police Hold Man For Hearing Today

A man booked as Winfred Jose Lopez, Bedford Street, is being held for investigation by city police, and Capt. James E. Van said he will be taken to Trial Magistrates Court today for hearing in connection with the theft of an accordion from a minister here.

Capt. Van said the clergyman took the man into his home and that an accordion came up missing early this week.

Investigation disclosed, he said, that the instrument valued at $50 had been pawned by a man, who gave the fictitious name of Robert Brown, Frederick Street.

Baltimore Must Be Redistricted

BALTIMORE (AP) — The 1963 General Assembly has been ordered to redistrict Baltimore City on an equitable basis.

Judge James K. Cullen signed an order Thursday making the redistricting mandatory and warned that if the legislature fails to act, the court will.

"In the event that the General Assembly at its 1963 session does not enact any bill or measure to the effect that each of the six districts of Baltimore City shall be as nearly as possible of equal population, this court will then entertain further proceedings in this case," Judge Cullen said.

The re-districting suit had been brought to Baltimore's Circuit Court by two 3rd District Republicans, Mrs. Samuel Hopkins and Samuel A. Culotta. It was never brought to trial, since attorneys for both the plaintiffs and the state mutually agreed on the order issued by Judge Cullen.

Another Landmark For Sir Winston

The birthdays of great men are usually observed in any significant public way only after they have passed from the scene. But every year that rolls around for Sir Winston Churchill, who will be 88 years old today, becomes more and more an occasion for public congratulation.

Perhaps it is, as one observer notes, that the quiet round of Sir Winston's life in recent years has been almost a symbol of permanence, continuity, tradition—the values many Britons cherish in a changing world. A less amiable commentator has called it "the totemism of Winston Churchill."

This year's anniversary is especially felicitious because Churchill demonstrated that even a man of his age can make a successful recovery from a broken thigh bone. He suffered the injury last June 28, was for a time believed to teeter between life and death, but was sufficiently improved by November 1 to shuffle into London's Savoy Hotel for the annual gathering of the Other Club, which Churchill helped to organize in 1911.

If today is one of Churchill's better days, he may motor to the House of Commons (which he first entered 62 years ago) to receive the traditional birthday cheers of the government and opposition benches and the public galleries. And as usual, he will be deluged with letters and telegrams of best wishes and long life from his legion of admirers around the world.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Arrogance Of Ignorance

No one has yet devised a less than total system of censorship. The Bolsheviks established a complete news blackout and then used favored foreign correspondents to present their cause in a better light. This was done in the 20s and early 30s by all sorts of devices.

Partial censorship and self-policing work only when a government is not adamantly intentioned to keep its people in ignorance. An American publisher and reporter believes himself to be permanently self-policed by good judgment and honest intentions; nevertheless, designs for ships and planes have been published, over the years, in magazines, which should not have fallen into the hands of the enemy. After the theft of the atom bomb, the attitude generally was that the Russians had swiped everything anyhow; so why not tell the American people?

"Managed news" is not censorship; it is propaganda. The assumption that a government can, in a free society, manage the news is a fallacy arising from arrogance and ignorance. President Kennedy and Assistant Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester, have had some newspaper experience and they ought to know that competent newspapermen will get the story. The "Miami Herald" has proved what a competent newspaper can do against every effort of government to manage news. My own exposure of William Wieland as identical with a Cuban newspaper writer, Montenegro, preceded a similar Congressional report by several years.

If a government really wants to establish censorship, it must destroy the free press, if it can. Arthur Sylvester has gone farther than any official has in American history. His monitor system requires that whenever a military officer talks to a newspaperman, he must immediately, in writing, report the conversation to him. This, of course, means that no decent newspaperman will put in jeopardy a military officer who talks to an American citizen who is regarded as suspect because of his profession.

Example

Captain X reports: I met Reston of New York Times on Pennsylvania Avenue. He said: Hello. I said, Hello. He said, How's the wife? I replied: I cannot discuss military affairs with you. He said: O.K. Let's talk about the weather. I said: Sorry, the weather is a military secret because if the weather is good, we might invade Cuba on Tuesday. Therefore, I must not discuss such matters with you. Sylvester objects. So, he left me and I noticed that he went into a telephone booth. Did I tell him anything?

Sylvester, who used to work in Newark, New Jersey, must know about the weather. He read this memorandum with care when it reached him along with 3,000 or 4,000 more. In fact, Sylvester must be the champion memorandum reader of all time. He believes in news as a weapon.

So did Hitler. It is remarkable how much is copied from Hitler. Use the radio and television to tell nothing but say it beautifully. That is a wonderful weapon because it keeps the masses both ignorant and enthusiastic. The Russians never worried about the enthusiasm of the masses; they shot down the opposition on appropriate occasions. But Hitler liked to feel mass support and Goebbels knew how to manipulate it. That is using news as a weapon. But such weaponry must not be extended over too long a period without dramatic results. Thus, Hitler had to make a war to keep up the spirits of the ignorant. The knowledgeable had long before become pessimists.

Castro used news as a weapon but he had the unfortunate habit of making himself the center of the news. The Cubans must have nothing to do, for they once listened to Castro for seven hours. No one can listen attentively for seven hours. It is against his animal nature.

Unfortunately for Arthur Sylvester, he does not have a captive audience. There is, first of all, the overseas radio and television, now aided by Telstar. Of course, he can send a rocket up high to kill Telstar, but there are still newspapers and magazines from abroad and one can put things together and discover what was suppressed. It is silly not to abolish all mail from abroad, if we want to use news as a weapon. It is also silly not to forbid intelligent foreigners to visit here. Why not limit ourselves only to those who can prove, by an examination, that they know nothing?

CIA Believes Russia Has Removed All Long-Range Missiles From Cuba

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Through the eyes of foreign diplomats in Havana and the cameras of vigilant reconnaissance planes, the Central Intelligence Agency is piecing together what has been going on inside Cuba.

CIA agents also have been interviewing Cuban refugees and underground contacts at the rate of 250 per day. Unfortunately, however, the Cubans' reports are often colored by a desire to see the United States invade Cuba.

It has been the Cuban informants, for instance, who have been most persistent in claiming that Russia has hidden offensive missiles in some of Cuba's 350 caves.

One of the most reliable informants, underground leader Luis Fernandez Rocha, recently listed seven Soviet-built "subterranean installations" in which missiles supposedly have been concealed.

However, the CIA discovered the report was founded upon two vague, mysterious telephone calls from Havana. This is hardly enough evidence upon which to base U. S. policy.

The CIA has verified that Dictator Castro has been remodeling caves and digging underground installations for over a year. The evidence indicates they are being used for storing weapons and ammunition, including perhaps 25-mile rockets. But the CIA is convinced that Russia has cleared out all her long-range missiles.

The word from Havana diplomats is that Anastas Mikoyan, the Kremlin trouble-shooter, had to bribe Castro with a three-year economic aid treaty to get him to agree to the removal of Soviet bombers from Cuba.

The aid offer was coupled with threats to cut off all Communist aid upon which Cuba now depends for 80 per cent of its needs.

During the negotiations, Castro also tried some threats of his own. He threatened to side with Red China in the ideological struggle between the Russian bear and the Chinese dragon.

After several rounds with the ranting Castro, Mikoyan wearily described him to Iron Curtain diplomats as a "neurotic."

Around The World With Congress

Of all the Congressmen who scattered to the four corners of the earth after the election, probably the gayest junket was arranged by the House Banking and Currency Committee.

Nearly a dozen members and their wives set out after elections to fly completely around the world at the taxpayers' expense. They even wangled ex-President Eisenhower's luxurious plane, the Columbine, from the Air Force and headed for the glamor capitals of the world, ranging from Honolulu to Hamilton, Bermuda.

The official purpose of this round-the-world trip was described in the committee's transportation request in these sweeping, all-inclusive words:

"To study matters of legislative and economic concern to the committee."

The real truth is that the Banking and Currency Committee deals only with domestic banking and currency. Foreign commerce is not its concern. It is handled by another committee.

It is true, however, that on this trip Congressmen are handling a lot of currency, but it's counterpart currency, drawn from the American Embassy at each stop and for which the travelers are not accountable to the Embassy or the State Department.

The State Department has even set up a secret account, under the code number 19FT561, to keep the Congressmen in spending money on their overseas junkets.

It would be easier to learn the whereabouts of our secret nuclear stockpiles than to find out how much each Congressman spends overseas. For the 19FT561 account is kept top secret by both the State Department and Congress.

Rep. William Barrett (D., Pa.) went on ahead to Hawaii to sun himself before catching the Columbine in Honolulu. Rep. and Mrs. Abe Multer (D., N. Y.) and Rep. and Mrs. Paul Fino (R., N. Y.) joined the party in Tokyo.

Rep. and Mrs. Robert Stephens (D., Ga.) and Rep. Harold Ryan (D., Mich.) waited to pick up the Columbine in Rome.

Those who made the full trip in the Columbine were Rep. and Mrs. James Harvey (R., Mich.), Rep. and Mrs. Michael Feighan (D., Ohio), and Rep. Edward Finnegan (D., Ill.).

They were accompanied by Jesse Wolcott of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. and Joseph Barr of the Treasury Department and their wives. Three committee staff members—Bob Paston, Orman Fink, and Grady Perry—also went along.

Note — Counterpart funds are local currency paid by foreign governments for foreign aid and not convertible into dollars. Those who believe the public is entitled to know how much counterpart funds any individual Congressman spends should protest to Chairman Omar Burleson (Texas) of the House Administration Committee or Sen. Carl Hayden (Ariz.) of the Senate Appropriations Committee. These are the two men who have refused to release a breakdown of Congressional spending abroad.

East-West Negotiations: A Realistic Approach

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

The wires from Moscow, these days, are burdened with amiable "yoo hoos" from the Kremlin ramparts, all aimed at President Kennedy. According to report, the President's private letters from Nikita S. Khrustchev are also full of friendly expression.

The current Kremlin line was probably best summed up by a long, obviously authoritative article in the official Izvestia by Nikolai Polyanov. Although Polyanov is the leading Moscow analyst of German affairs, he did not even mention the never-ending Berlin crisis. Instead, he listed other outstanding questions, like the nuclear test question, and added:

"Probably the world has never been near such an important turning point as today. The ending of the Caribbean crisis could also become the beginning of the end of other disputed problems."

In addition to writing to the President, Khrushchev has been dropping the same sort of hint all over Moscow, with his usual elephantine delicacy, both on social occasions and in private talks with Western diplomats. Having caught the muggers before the preparations for the mugging were quite complete, in fact, we are now being invited to take tea with them, with the garrote tactfully hidden under the tea table.

In exchanges between nations, it is almost as foolish to give way to righteous indignation as to expect enduring gratitude. Therefore, the fact that an exceedingly Machiavellian international mugging was attempted in Cuba by the Soviets should not debar this country from exchanges with Moscow that promise a useful result.

The mugging must be borne in mind, however. So must the fact that the super-Machiavellian cover and deception plan led Khrushchev himself to send a grossly, flagrantly untruthful personal message to the President of the United States.

Since the 16th century, there has been nothing between chiefs of state quite like this Khrushchev message that the Soviets would never implace in Cuba weapons capable of "reaching American targets." It was sent after work on the Cuban missile bases had already started. And the junior Soviet diplomat with New Frontier friends, who was charged with carrying the message, was even required by both Khrushchev and Mikoyan to write the very words in his notebook, in order to make them seem more convincing.

It is known that this episode of the false message has left a strong mark on President Kennedy's thinking. This is certainly one of the reasons why there are few signs, in the inner group of American policy-makers, of the extremely woolly response to the happy outcome of the Cuban crisis that is rather widespread elsewhere.

As we have just prevented Khrushchev from doing great harm to us, so the woolly argument runs, it is urgent to be very nice to Khrushchev, no doubt as balm for his natural feelings of frustration. When simply stated in this manner, the argument answers itself.

There is also a more sophisticated version of the argument, that we must be nice to Khrushchev, in order to strengthen his hand against the cross, frustrated Stalinists. There is enough in this line of reasoning to justify the attempt that is now going on, to find some formula which can be claimed by the Soviets as a final settlement of the Cuba question, without including the iron-clad "no invasion" pledge that we cannot give without on-site verification in Cuba. But even this line of reasoning must be taken with a large grain of salt.

In the first place, Khrushchev is still, quite evidently, in solid, unchallenged control of affairs in Moscow. In the second and more important place, there is no doubt at all that the Moscow hardliners and warhawks are precisely the people who have been most disconcerted and weakened by the Cuban episode. If the attempted mugging had succeeded, it would have been their triumph. Its failure has disproven their central argument, that the United States is weak of arm and will, and therefore safe to push around.

In this connection, the total cessation of the old hard-line talk about Berlin is highly significant. This talk had been getting uglier and uglier. But since the Cuban crisis there has not been a whisper of it.

Add up all these considerations, and the result of the sum is very interesting indeed. It is not urgent to be nice to Khrushchev. It is not prudent to forget that message to the President. It is perfectly idiotic to suppose that the Soviets will not gouge our eyes out at Berlin, if and when they ever think they can do so with impunity.

That is one-half of the sum. But the other half of the sum is that the Soviet hardliners have undoubtedly been diminished and discomfited, while the Kremlin's respect for the United States has been proportionally increased.

These last features of the situation strongly favor East-West negotiations about outstanding questions, so long as the negotiations are entered into with no damp-handed eagerness to be "nice," but with a serious purpose to find mutually beneficial solutions.

AUTOGRAPH TRICK—Celebrities who are constantly being asked to give their autograph as a souvenir, have one fear in common—that in the hasty scribbling of names, they'll some day sign what proves to be a blank check.

One way out for many celebrities is to have two signatures—one for check-signing and one for all other purposes, including autograph hounds. President Eisenhower has another solution. In instances, and they have occurred, when a blank check is handed to him for his signature by a fan, Ike carefully places his name on the line of the check that says "pay to the order of."

He was an old man and he edited a pretty good newspaper. This one knew how to delegate authority. Over the years, he had acquired the best city editor, the best copy editor, the best picture editor and a pretty good art director. So the old man stuck to his office and permitted his men to administer their respective departments.

The office door was on the left of the city desk. It was always open. His secretary sat outside the door at a pale desk with nicks in it. The old man was prone to write terse answers to his mail. To a letter inviting him to a governor's reception, he wrote: "Okay, I'll be there. Thanks. Sincerely. . ."

He smoked a pipe and spent the day reading the afternoon newspapers because the old man edited a morning sheet and he wanted follow-up stories on some of the stuff in the P.M.'s. Sometimes, when he felt lonesome, he would tamp his tobacco down, and come out in the city room in an old lamb's wool sweater and sit on a reporter's desk and talk.

It was never important conversation. He could smile a little while clenching the pipe with his teeth and ask about family life, children, and sometimes he'd swap stories about one-time newspapermen like Martin Green and Richard Harding Davis and Floyd Gibbons and Hecht and Lait and George Buchanan Fife and Gene Fowler.

No one in the city room ever learned much about the old man's private life except that he was madly in love with his wife. The city editor had met her once, and he said she looked like an old hag. She had more wrinkles than a relief map of Colorado.

The old man had married her in 1912, according to his orbit file in the morgue. They had no children. Once a week, he sent flowers to her and he was fond of buying little knick-knacks for her on the way home. He had a nice house, but few ever saw the inside. An old friend once said it wasn't a home; it was a temple where he worshipped his wife.

That is why, when word seeped through the editorial department that the old man's wife was dying, no one knew how to handle it. No one knew whether to commiserate, or even to ask how she was feeling. The city editor said that he would ignore the matter because the old man had once lectured him on the beauty of silence.

No one said anything. The old man came in every day, hung his coat on the old tree in his office, took down the sweater, buttoned the bottom button, and sat at his desk. After that, he didn't come out any more to sit on desks and swap stories. He kept to his office, unless there was something he wanted to ask his wire editor, or something he wanted to suggest.

The old man was popular. The men liked him because he ran the place so smoothly. Sometimes, when a bad error appeared in the paper, he sent a memo to the offender, but he never threatened anybody. He seemed to feel that everyone who worked for him was just about the best, and this engendered a similar feeling among the reporters about the old man.

The lady required a long time to die. His secretary confided to the society editor that the old man still sent the flowers, and still bought the silly earrings and the flowered brooches on his way home. Once, she had the temerity to say to the old man: "How is Mrs. . . .?" and the old man had held up a hand and merely said: "Please."

In time, the men of the city room became too engrossed in their work to ask anybody for news. All anybody knew, for certain, was that the boss's wife was home. She was not in a hospital. There were nurses around the clock. Everyone knew this, because the old man's secretary wrote out the checks.

Toward the end, nobody bothered the old man unless he needed a voucher for ten dollars until payday. The old man signed these cheerfully, never asking questions, never lecturing about thrift or drinking, always managing a flicker of a smile over the pipe.

The days and the weeks and the months dragged their feet across the old man's heart and no one could help him. He wanted to do it alone and each day he seemed a little older, a little more bent. In time, it seemed to make some of the staff nervous. "What the hell is the virtue of silence?" a kid reporter asked. "I'd have busted long ago."

Then, one morning, the lady died. The old man should have stayed home, but perhaps he couldn't stand it. He showed up at lunch time and walked into his office without saying hello to anybody. He told his secretary to get a big piece of white cardboard from the art department. He worked over it at his desk, for ten minutes.

The old man came out and, with thumb tacks, hung a sign over his office door. All it said was: "Don't Mention It.". . .

Early Rehabilitation After Stroke Important

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Approximately 1.8 million living Americans have survived a stroke. Many have recovered completely whereas others are slightly or completely disabled. The outlook varies, regardless of the severity of the stroke. Some victims with serious damage to the brain recover rapidly—whereas others take a long time to regain even partial use of the limbs, speech, or vision.

The secret is to start treatment as soon as possible because the paralyzed muscles deteriorate unless moved or stimulated. Surgery helps some but the majority need rehabilitation to restore function. The results are not always perfect but there is no way to determine the outcome unless retraining is attempted.

Rehabilitation requires the cooperation of the physician, the victim, and the family. A thorough examination is needed to evaluate the extent of the loss of motion, sensory and visual perception, intellect, language, and other brain functions. The paralyzed muscles are massaged to help stimulate circulation and to retain flexibility of the joints. The limbs are moved by someone else, to provide passive exercise. These exercises are done according to directions given by the physician as soon as the acute phase of the stroke subsides.

Several days or weeks may elapse before the individual can move the involved arm or leg. This phase is fraught with disappointment but it is surprising how much may be accomplished when the man or woman has the will to recover.

After sufficient progress has been made along this line, certain self-care and household activities can be used to enforce active exercise. The victim must be allowed to do as much as possible by himself until confidence returns.

Some cities have rehabilitation centers where skilled care is available. Others use the facilities of a specialist in physical medicine or obtain help from the visiting nurse service or a family service agency. Some states have vocational rehabilitation agencies for job counseling and physical restoration. It is worth the effort to seek assistance along this line so the stroke victim can get back on his feet.

BLOWS A LOT

E. K. writes: I have to blow my nose a lot even though I don't have a cold. Is this good or bad?

REPLY

Good, if the need exists.

DEFORMITIES

G. R. writes: What does phocomelia actually mean? I know it has to do with deformed babies of mothers who took a German sedative.

REPLY

The word, phocomelia, comes from the Greek phoke (seal) and melos (limbs). These infants come into the world with various deformities but the most characteristic findings are the small rudimentary appendages. In some instances, the limbs are functionless nubbins.

SHOCK WON'T HELP

O. L. writes: Is shock treatment of any value in raising a low I.Q.?

REPLY

No. You either have brains or you don't. Shocking an individual who is not insane will not increase the ability to learn.

KNEE REFLEXES

M. P. writes: My 13-year-old daughter has no reaction to knee taps. Is this important?

REPLY

The reflex response to knee taps varies and may be suppressed completely in normal persons. It is more significant when one side is more or less active than the other.

At Christmas time every year, the tenth grade in a swanky private school up the Hudson presents a Shakespeare play — sometimes Julius Caesar, sometimes The Merchant of Venice, sometimes even Macbeth.

Shortly before this great event last December, the teacher of a lower grade asked, "Does anybody in this class know who Shakespeare is?" One kid raised his hand and declared, "Sure! He's the guy that writes our Christmas play every year."

A judge in the Southwest, indignant at learning that his wife had been denied a driving license, demanded of her, "Lillian, think hard. Did you say or do anything specific that seemed to upset the inspector who gave you your driving test?" Lillian did indeed think hard. "Well," she reflected, "he did seem bothered when, after he had asked me, 'What is the white line for in the middle of the road?'

But I gave him the proper answer: 'Bicycles!'"

Two flies met on top of a huckleberry cake. "How's the world treating you, Mrs. Buzz?" asked one. "Not so good," was the weary reply. "Junior's been in such a pet I've had to walk the ceiling with him all week."

Another Landmark For Sir Winston

The birthdays of great men are usually observed in any significant public way only after they have passed from the scene. But every year that rolls around for Sir Winston Churchill, who will be 88 years old today, becomes more and more an occasion for public congratulation.

Perhaps it is, as one observer notes, that the quiet round of Sir Winston's life in recent years has been almost a symbol of permanence, continuity, tradition—the values many Britons cherish in a changing world. A less amiable commentator has called it "the totemism of Winston Churchill."

This year's anniversary is especially felicitious because Churchill demonstrated that even a man of his age can make a successful recovery from a broken thigh bone. He suffered the injury last June 28, was for a time believed to teeter between life and death, but was sufficiently improved by November 1 to shuffle into London's Savoy Hotel for the annual gathering of the Other Club, which Churchill helped to organize in 1911.

If today is one of Churchill's better days, he may motor to the House of Commons (which he first entered 62 years ago) to receive the traditional birthday cheers of the government and opposition benches and the public galleries. And as usual, he will be deluged with letters and telegrams of best wishes and long life from his legion of admirers around the world.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Arrogance Of Ignorance

No one has yet devised a less than total system of censorship. The Bolsheviks established a complete news blackout and then used favored foreign correspondents to present their cause in a better light. This was done in the 20s and early 30s by all sorts of devices.

Partial censorship and self-policing work only when a government is not adamantly intentioned to keep its people in ignorance. An American publisher and reporter believes himself to be permanently self-policed by good judgment and honest intentions; nevertheless, designs for ships and planes have been published, over the years, in magazines, which should not have fallen into the hands of the enemy. After the theft of the atom bomb, the attitude generally was that the Russians had swiped everything anyhow; so why not tell the American people?

"Managed news" is not censorship; it is propaganda. The assumption that a government can, in a free society, manage the news is a fallacy arising from arrogance and ignorance. President Kennedy and Assistant Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester, have had some newspaper experience and they ought to know that competent newspapermen will get the story. The "Miami Herald" has proved what a competent newspaper can do against every effort of government to manage news. My own exposure of William Wieland as identical with a Cuban newspaper writer, Montenegro, preceded a similar Congressional report by several years.

If a government really wants to establish censorship, it must destroy the free press, if it can. Arthur Sylvester has gone farther than any official has in American history. His monitor system requires that whenever a military officer talks to a newspaperman, he must immediately, in writing, report the conversation to him. This, of course, means that no decent newspaperman will put in jeopardy a military officer who talks to an American citizen who is regarded as suspect because of his profession.

Example

Captain X reports: I met Reston of New York Times on Pennsylvania Avenue. He said: Hello. I said, Hello. He said, How's the wife? I replied: I cannot discuss military affairs with you. He said: O.K. Let's talk about the weather. I said: Sorry, the weather is a military secret because if the weather is good, we might invade Cuba on Tuesday. Therefore, I must not discuss such matters with you. Sylvester objects. So, he left me and I noticed that he went into a telephone booth. Did I tell him anything?

Sylvester, who used to work in Newark, New Jersey, must know about the weather. He read this memorandum with care when it reached him along with 3,000 or 4,000 more. In fact, Sylvester must be the champion memorandum reader of all time. He believes in news as a weapon.

So did Hitler. It is remarkable how much is copied from Hitler. Use the radio and television to tell nothing but say it beautifully. That is a wonderful weapon because it keeps the masses both ignorant and enthusiastic. The Russians never worried about the enthusiasm of the masses; they shot down the opposition on appropriate occasions. But Hitler liked to feel mass support and Goebbels knew how to manipulate it. That is using news as a weapon. But such weaponry must not be extended over too long a period without dramatic results. Thus, Hitler had to make a war to keep up the spirits of the ignorant. The knowledgeable had long before become pessimists.

Castro used news as a weapon but he had the unfortunate habit of making himself the center of the news. The Cubans must have nothing to do, for they once listened to Castro for seven hours. No one can listen attentively for seven hours. It is against his animal nature.

Unfortunately for Arthur Sylvester, he does not have a captive audience. There is, first of all, the overseas radio and television, now aided by Telstar. Of course, he can send a rocket up high to kill Telstar, but there are still newspapers and magazines from abroad and one can put things together and discover what was suppressed. It is silly not to abolish all mail from abroad, if we want to use news as a weapon. It is also silly not to forbid intelligent foreigners to visit here. Why not limit ourselves only to those who can prove, by an examination, that they know nothing?

CIA Believes Russia Has Removed All Long-Range Missiles From Cuba

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Through the eyes of foreign diplomats in Havana and the cameras of vigilant reconnaissance planes, the Central Intelligence Agency is piecing together what has been going on inside Cuba.

CIA agents also have been interviewing Cuban refugees and underground contacts at the rate of 250 per day. Unfortunately, however, the Cubans' reports are often colored by a desire to see the United States invade Cuba.

It has been the Cuban informants, for instance, who have been most persistent in claiming that Russia has hidden offensive missiles in some of Cuba's 350 caves.

One of the most reliable informants, underground leader Luis Fernandez Rocha, recently listed seven Soviet-built "subterranean installations" in which missiles supposedly have been concealed.

However, the CIA discovered the report was founded upon two vague, mysterious telephone calls from Havana. This is hardly enough evidence upon which to base U. S. policy.

The CIA has verified that Dictator Castro has been remodeling caves and digging underground installations for over a year. The evidence indicates they are being used for storing weapons and ammunition, including perhaps 25-mile rockets. But the CIA is convinced that Russia has cleared out all her long-range missiles.

The word from Havana diplomats is that Anastas Mikoyan, the Kremlin trouble-shooter, had to bribe Castro with a three-year economic aid treaty to get him to agree to the removal of Soviet bombers from Cuba.

The aid offer was coupled with threats to cut off all Communist aid upon which Cuba now depends for 80 per cent of its needs.

During the negotiations, Castro also tried some threats of his own. He threatened to side with Red China in the ideological struggle between the Russian bear and the Chinese dragon.

After several rounds with the ranting Castro, Mikoyan wearily described him to Iron Curtain diplomats as a "neurotic."

Around The World With Congress

Of all the Congressmen who scattered to the four corners of the earth after the election, probably the gayest junket was arranged by the House Banking and Currency Committee.

Nearly a dozen members and their wives set out after elections to fly completely around the world at the taxpayers' expense. They even wangled ex-President Eisenhower's luxurious plane, the Columbine, from the Air Force and headed for the glamor capitals of the world, ranging from Honolulu to Hamilton, Bermuda.

The official purpose of this round-the-world trip was described in the committee's transportation request in these sweeping, all-inclusive words:

"To study matters of legislative and economic concern to the committee."

The real truth is that the Banking and Currency Committee deals only with domestic banking and currency. Foreign commerce is not its concern. It is handled by another committee.

It is true, however, that on this trip Congressmen are handling a lot of currency, but it's counterpart currency, drawn from the American Embassy at each stop and for which the travelers are not accountable to the Embassy or the State Department.

The State Department has even set up a secret account, under the code number 19FT561, to keep the Congressmen in spending money on their overseas junkets.

It would be easier to learn the whereabouts of our secret nuclear stockpiles than to find out how much each Congressman spends overseas. For the 19FT561 account is kept top secret by both the State Department and Congress.

Rep. William Barrett (D., Pa.) went on ahead to Hawaii to sun himself before catching the Columbine in Honolulu. Rep. and Mrs. Abe Multer (D., N. Y.) and Rep. and Mrs. Paul Fino (R., N. Y.) joined the party in Tokyo.

Rep. and Mrs. Robert Stephens (D., Ga.) and Rep. Harold Ryan (D., Mich.) waited to pick up the Columbine in Rome.

Those who made the full trip in the Columbine were Rep. and Mrs. James Harvey (R., Mich.), Rep. and Mrs. Michael Feighan (D., Ohio), and Rep. Edward Finnegan (D., Ill.).

They were accompanied by Jesse Wolcott of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. and Joseph Barr of the Treasury Department and their wives. Three committee staff members—Bob Paston, Orman Fink, and Grady Perry—also went along.

Note — Counterpart funds are local currency paid by foreign governments for foreign aid and not convertible into dollars. Those who believe the public is entitled to know how much counterpart funds any individual Congressman spends should protest to Chairman Omar Burleson (Texas) of the House Administration Committee or Sen. Carl Hayden (Ariz.) of the Senate Appropriations Committee. These are the two men who have refused to release a breakdown of Congressional spending abroad.

East-West Negotiations: A Realistic Approach

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

The wires from Moscow, these days, are burdened with amiable "yoo hoos" from the Kremlin ramparts, all aimed at President Kennedy. According to report, the President's private letters from Nikita S. Khrustchev are also full of friendly expression.

The current Kremlin line was probably best summed up by a long, obviously authoritative article in the official Izvestia by Nikolai Polyanov. Although Polyanov is the leading Moscow analyst of German affairs, he did not even mention the never-ending Berlin crisis. Instead, he listed other outstanding questions, like the nuclear test question, and added:

"Probably the world has never been near such an important turning point as today. The ending of the Caribbean crisis could also become the beginning of the end of other disputed problems."

In addition to writing to the President, Khrushchev has been dropping the same sort of hint all over Moscow, with his usual elephantine delicacy, both on social occasions and in private talks with Western diplomats. Having caught the muggers before the preparations for the mugging were quite complete, in fact, we are now being invited to take tea with them, with the garrote tactfully hidden under the tea table.

In exchanges between nations, it is almost as foolish to give way to righteous indignation as to expect enduring gratitude. Therefore, the fact that an exceedingly Machiavellian international mugging was attempted in Cuba by the Soviets should not debar this country from exchanges with Moscow that promise a useful result.

The mugging must be borne in mind, however. So must the fact that the super-Machiavellian cover and deception plan led Khrushchev himself to send a grossly, flagrantly untruthful personal message to the President of the United States.

Since the 16th century, there has been nothing between chiefs of state quite like this Khrushchev message that the Soviets would never implace in Cuba weapons capable of "reaching American targets." It was sent after work on the Cuban missile bases had already started. And the junior Soviet diplomat with New Frontier friends, who was charged with carrying the message, was even required by both Khrushchev and Mikoyan to write the very words in his notebook, in order to make them seem more convincing.

It is known that this episode of the false message has left a strong mark on President Kennedy's thinking. This is certainly one of the reasons why there are few signs, in the inner group of American policy-makers, of the extremely woolly response to the happy outcome of the Cuban crisis that is rather widespread elsewhere.

As we have just prevented Khrushchev from doing great harm to us, so the woolly argument runs, it is urgent to be very nice to Khrushchev, no doubt as balm for his natural feelings of frustration. When simply stated in this manner, the argument answers itself.

Toward the end, nobody bothered the old man unless he needed a voucher for ten dollars until payday. The old man signed these cheerfully, never asking questions, never lecturing about thrift or drinking, always managing a flicker of a smile over the pipe.

The days and the weeks and the months dragged their feet across the old man's heart and no one could help him. He wanted to do it alone and each day he seemed a little older, a little more bent. In time, it seemed to make some of the staff nervous. "What the hell is the virtue of silence?" a kid reporter asked. "I'd have busted long ago."

Then, one morning, the lady died. The old man should have stayed home, but perhaps he couldn't stand it. He showed up at lunch time and walked into his office without saying hello to anybody. He told his secretary to get a big piece of white cardboard from the art department. He worked over it at his desk, for ten minutes.

The old man came out and, with thumb tacks, hung a sign over his office door. All it said was: "Don't Mention It.". . .

Early Rehabilitation After Stroke Important

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Approximately 1.8 million living Americans have survived a stroke. Many have recovered completely whereas others are slightly or completely disabled. The outlook varies, regardless of the severity of the stroke. Some victims with serious damage to the brain recover rapidly—whereas others take a long time to regain even partial use of the limbs, speech, or vision.

The secret is to start treatment as soon as possible because the paralyzed muscles deteriorate unless moved or stimulated. Surgery helps some but the majority need rehabilitation to restore function. The results are not always perfect but there is no way to determine the outcome unless retraining is attempted.

Rehabilitation requires the cooperation of the physician, the victim, and the family. A thorough examination is needed to evaluate the extent of the loss of motion, sensory and visual perception, intellect, language, and other brain functions. The paralyzed muscles are massaged to help stimulate circulation and to retain flexibility of the joints. The limbs are moved by someone else, to provide passive exercise. These exercises are done according to directions given by the physician as soon as the acute phase of the stroke subsides.

Several days or weeks may elapse before the individual can move the involved arm or leg. This phase is fraught with disappointment but it is surprising how much may be accomplished when the man or woman has the will to recover.

After sufficient progress has been made along this line, certain self-care and household activities can be used to enforce active exercise. The victim must be allowed to do as much as possible by himself until confidence returns.

Some cities have rehabilitation centers where skilled care is available. Others use the facilities of a specialist in physical medicine or obtain help from the visiting nurse service or a family service agency. Some states have vocational rehabilitation agencies for job counseling and physical restoration. It is worth the effort to seek assistance along this line so the stroke victim can get back on his feet.

BLOWS A LOT

E. K. writes: I have to blow my nose a lot even though I don't have a cold. Is this good or bad?

REPLY

Good, if the need exists.

DEFORMITIES

G. R. writes: What does phocomelia actually mean? I know it has to do with deformed babies of mothers who took a German sedative.

REPLY

The word, phocomelia, comes from the Greek phoke (seal) and melos (limbs). These infants come into the world with various deformities but the most characteristic findings are the small rudimentary appendages. In some instances, the limbs are functionless nubbins.

SHOCK WON'T HELP

O. L. writes: Is shock treatment of any value in raising a low I.Q.?

REPLY

No. You either have brains or you don't. Shocking an individual who is not insane will not increase the ability to learn.

KNEE REFLEXES

M. P. writes: My 13-year-old daughter has no reaction to knee taps. Is this important?

REPLY

The reflex response to knee taps varies and may be suppressed completely in normal persons. It is more significant when one side is more or less active than the other.

DAILY TOMATO

L. H. writes: Is a tomato every day too much to eat?

REPLY

Not if this is all you eat.

TOMORROW: Cough syncope (fainting).

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

At Christmas time every year, the tenth grade in a swanky private school up the Hudson presents a Shakespeare play — sometimes Julius Caesar, sometimes The Merchant of Venice, sometimes even Macbeth.

Shortly before this great event last December, the teacher of a lower grade asked, "Does anybody in this class know who Shakespeare is?" One kid raised his hand and declared, "Sure! He's the guy that writes our Christmas play every year."

A judge in the Southwest, indignant at learning that his wife had been denied a driving license, demanded of her, "Lillian, think hard. Did you say or do anything specific that seemed to upset the inspector who gave you your driving test?" Lillian did indeed think hard. "Well," she reflected, "he did seem bothered when, after he had asked me, 'What is the white line for in the middle of the road?'

But I gave him the proper answer: 'Bicycles!' "

Two flies met on top of a huckleberry cake. "How's the world treating you, Mrs. Buzz?" asked one. "Not so good," was the weary reply. "Junior's been in such a pet I've had to walk the ceiling with him all week."

Fort Hill Lands Three On Rebel-Dominated CVAL All-Star Team

Westminster To Withdraw From Circuit

Sentinels' Smith, Robinson, Rowley Get Top Honors

By TED TROXELL

Most of the attention at yesterday's fall meeting of the Cumberland Valley Athletic League in Berkeley Springs was focused on two schools — South Hagerstown and Westminster. The reasons for their being in the limelight, however, were distinctly different.

To the surprise of practically no one, South High's undefeated league champions led the first team balloting for the 1962 all-star football squad with five selections. And in a move that had been anticipated, Westminster announced its withdrawal from the circuit.

CVAL All-Star Selections

FIRST TEAM

ENDS—Dwight Guyton and Craig Etchison, South Hagerstown.

TACKLES—Albert Resh, South Hagerstown; Dave Weller, Martinsburg.

CENTER—Clarence Thomas, Frederick.

QUARTERBACK — Phil Petry, South Hagerstown.

HALFBACKS—Colin Smith and Richard Robinson, Fort Hill; Jim Shields, Martinsburg.

SECOND TEAM

GUARDS—Carl Belt, Allegany; Wallace Swayne, Fort Hill; Roy Armentrout, Martinsburg; John Kinser, Westminster.

QUARTERBACK — Delbert Proudfoot, Fort Hill.

HALFBACKS — Craig Ingram, North Hagerstown; Jim Hall, Frederick.

FULLBACK — Walter Poffenberger, South Hagerstown.

HONORABLE MENTION

ENDS — John Slider, Allegany; Jack Williams, Fort Hill; Harley Thomas, Frederick; Skip Barnhart, North Hagerstown; Charles Rinehart, Frederick; Kenneth Wilt, Martinsburg.

TACKLES—David Spence, Fort Hill; Alvin Binau, South Hagerstown, Stanley Keyser, Frederick; Alan Zepp and Jeffrey Inex, Westminster.

FULLBACKS—Dave Merrill, Allegany; Bob Henry, Fort Hill; Jim Nuse, Frederick; Mike Galloway, Westminster.

All but one of the first team all-star berths were landed by only three schools. Martinsburg placed four players and Fort Hill three on the 13-man squad chosen by the league's coaches. Frederick rounded out the mythical aggregation with one selectee.

Ironically Allegany's Campers, who tied both Fort Hill and Martinsburg during the campaign, were shut out in the first team balloting and got only one man on the second unit.

Member Since 1956

Westminster, which has been a member of the league since its reorganization in 1956, will terminate membership at the end of the school year, and will participate in the CVAL track meet in May.

Westminster grid coach Herb Ruby made a terse statement in which he said the school's athletic council felt it would be in the best interest of the sports program to withdraw from the league.

But principal Steve Lerda, president of the league this year, cast more light on the matter by informing the gathering that the action was taken because the Owls have decided to confine their opposition to schools within a 50-mile radius of the Carroll County community.

When asked by Dr. Wayne Hill, principal of Fort Hill High, if this were the primary consideration, Lerda replied affirmatively.

Alco, Sentinels Dropped

As a result, Allegany and Fort Hill will be severed from Westminster's schedule. Handley High of Winchester will also be dropped.

Allegany coach Ed Schwarz raised the point that Westminster has a contractural obligation to meet his team in Cumberland next year. Lerda assured Schwarz the matter will be taken up with his school's athletic council, but it is doubtful if the two will meet on the gridiron again.

Dr. W. Ardell Haines, Allegany principal and CVAL secretary-treasurer, expressed his regret at losing Westminster as a league member, and added that it will be difficult for the Campers to find an equivalent replacement to fill the open date on the schedule.

Fort Hill coach Charlie Lattimer went on record as saying that the Sentinels have enjoyed their athletic relationship with the Westminster school.

Westminster is a member of the Tri-State Conference, which includes all the CVAL schools except Allegany and Fort Hill, and also Waynesboro, Pa.

Petry Unanimous Choice

Quarterback Phil Petry, who guided the South High Rebels to their perfect season, was a unanimous choice for the signal-calling slot on the all-star squad for the second straight year.

Both of South's fine ends — Dwight Guyton and Craig Etchison — were selected, in addition to tackle Albert Resh and guard Marvin Baker. The latter moves up from the second team, while Resh received honorable mention last season.

Colin Smith, Fort Hill halfback, was named to the first team for the second time, but the stock of several of last year's all-stars dropped.

Halfback Mike Harvey and center John Roy of Allegany, who were accorded first team honors last year, rated only honorable mention on the '62 squad. John Kinzer, Westminster guard dropped down to the second unit.

31 Get Mention

Fort Hill placed five gridders on the 14-man second team, and had three of its players cited for honorable mention. Seven Allegany boys are among the 31 on the honorable mention list.

Guard Carl (Bucky) Belt was the only Allegany player to be named on either of the first two units.

South Hagerstown, which finished with a 6-0 league mark and 9-0 overall record, was officially recognized as league champion for the 1962 season, and a large trophy was presented to Rebel coach Doug Cochran.

It was decided to stage the CVAL track meet on Saturday, May 4, at Frederick High School. Hal Moser, of the Frederick faculty, will be in charge of arrangements.

WITH TROTTERS SHOW — One of the many added features to the eagerly-awaited basketball game between the celebrated Harlem Globetrotters and the San Francisco All-Nations Saturday night at the Allegany High School gym is the exhibition to be given by Robert Ashley (top) and Dennis Hickerson, two of the world's greatest table tennis stars. Ashley, from Hollywood, Calif., has performed in the movies, night clubs, on the stage and television and is claimant of the world's pro title. A native of Los Angeles, Hickerson has been playing only five years. He is currently Sweden's No. 1 table tennis ace.

Section 7-2 Grid Team Wins Beall Elementary Title

Section 7-2 defeated Section 7-3 by the score of 24-6 in a recent game to win the football championship of Beall Elementary School.

The game was witnessed by the entire 7th grade and many parents who were visiting the school.

Results of the physical fitness test revealed that 46 per cent of the boys and 53 per cent of the girls passed all seven parts of the test.

For the boys, pull-ups seemed to be the most difficult while the girls had the most trouble with the broad jump.

Key State Witness Tells How Bribery Money Went To Cagers

Wagman Testifies He Mailed $3,250 To Niewierowski

By HENRY A. BLUMENTHAL
United Press International

RALEIGH, N. C. (UPI) — A key state witness returned to the stand Thursday to tell how bribery money passed down to athletes involved in an alleged nationwide conspiracy to fix basketball games.

Aaron (The Bagman) Wagman of New York, who earlier this week described himself as an "intermediary" in the game rigging, said prior to the Duke-North Carolina State game of Jan. 7, 1961, Dave Goldberg of St. Louis sent $2,000 via telegraph to a friend of Wagman. The friend then turned over the money to Wagman.

After the basketball game was decided within the point limit set by the "backer," Goldberg sent another $2,000 to Wagman via his friend, Wagman testified.

Players Split Loot

He said he took out $750 as his share and mailed the remaining $3,250 to North Carolina State cager Stan Niewierowski. Niewierowski said he split the money with another member of the team, Anton Muehlbauer.

Earlier in the day, Paul Franklin Walker Jr., a New York truck driver, testified he flew to North Carolina with $2,700 prior to a North Carolina State-University of Maryland game Feb. 13, 1960. He said two state players were paid to "shave points."

Walker said the money was paid to assure the final score would be within a four-point margin and the "backers" were pleased when the game turned out that way.

Walker said he got the money from Morris Heyison of Pittsburgh, Pa., and $500 of it went to "payoff man" Joseph Greene—contact between the players and the syndicate.

Also on the stand Thursday were Lou Barshak and Michael Siegal. Siegal said he attempted to influence a player at the University of Seattle and one at the University of Detroit without success.

Being tried under a 43-count indictment charging conspiracy to rig a number of North Carolina State basketball games are Steve Lekometros and Dave Goldberg of St. Louis.

Since the trial began Nov. 19, testimony has been taken from four State College players, a number of defendants, a representative of the Southern Bell Telephone Co., and State coach Everett Case.

Rigged Many Games

The defendants were alleged to have rigged games involving colleges from New York, New Jersey, North Carolina, South Carolina, Pennsylvania, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Verbal War Over Track Flares Anew

Coaches Of NCAA Take Slap At AAU

By JERRY GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP) — The verbal war for U.S. track control flared anew Thursday night with the NCAA's coaches federation charging a new coalition plan approved by the AAU reneged on the original agreement.

The AAU's 35-man executive board unanimously endorsed the track and field coalition earlier in the day and turned the plan over to its board of governors for expected approval Saturday.

The AAU plan emphasized that it will retain all control of U.S. participation in international competition. This brought a strong rebuttal from the U.S. Track and Field Federation consisting of coaches.

Two weeks ago the AAU and NCAA agreed at New York on a coalition plan designed to end 2½ years of bickering and insure strong U.S. representation in the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo.

Canham said a conference telephone call with other federation officials agreed the AAU endorsed plan was unsatisfactory.

"We agreed the New York coalition was based on five points," Canham said, "and any changing and eliminating now changes the whole concept of the agreement."

1. A coalition agreement between the AAU and the federation.

2. That a coalition would be formed which would have equal numbers-a new group in which it would take a two-thirds majority vote to control.

3. In 1964 the new coalition would seek with the AAU's blessing to have the International Amateur Athletic Federation recognize the new coalition as the governing body of track and field in the United States.

4. In turn, the federation would not claim jurisdiction over open athletes. It would be educational only and all other athletes would be under the AAU.

5. A coalition track meet would be held for the purpose of determining national teams for international meets.

The AAU's executive committee announcement said all track business of an international nature would continue to be conducted by the AAU.

"We will stay as the governing body because we are the only American group affiliated with the IAAF," said Louis J. Fisher, AAU president.

The IAAF is the world governing body for track and field.

Middies Rated Even Chance To Beat Army

Service Teams Meet 63rd Time

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Free-wheeling Navy is rated an even chance in quest of its fourth straight service football victory Saturday over an Army team eager to end the drought under new Coach Paul Dietzel.

Shorn of frills like bowl possibilities and high national ranking, the 63rd meeting of the academies has boiled itself down to a battle of super-charged squads whose supporters have whipped themselves into a frenzy.

President John F. Kennedy will be on hand for the nationally televised pageant—CBS, 1:30 p.m., EST—to which he'll add an innovation. For the first time the chief executive will walk to the middle of the field for the coin toss between captains Steve Hoy of Navy and John Ellerson of Army.

While the game will offer a contrast between the Middies' prototype attack and the methodical Cadet running offense, the schools present many similarities. Three-unit substitution systems, squad weights, optimism, good physical shape and enthusiasm are very much alike.

Navy's Wayne Hardin can become the first coach in Annapolis history to beat Army sour straight. Dietzel, hired specifically to end the Navy streak, hasn't let his Cadets forget their task for a moment. Army has won only two of the last eight and three of the past 12 meetings though it still leads the series 30-27-5.

In a three-way telephonic interview for Armed Services Radio and conducted by Air Force Academy Coach Ben Martin Thursday, Dietzel said:

"Old timers who have been on the post 35 to 40 years say the enthusiasm of the cadet corps this year is greater than they can ever remember. This team is more ready to play than it ever has been, is very loose and very confident."

"The kids are very high here," Hardin reported from Annapolis. "They are confident, feeling they are going to Philadelphia to cheer the team on to victory."

To the surprise of practically no one, South High's undefeated league champions led the first team balloting for the 1962 all-star football squad with five selections. And in a move that had been anticipated, Westminster announced its withdraway from the circuit.

FULLBACKS—Dave Merrill, Allegany; Bob Henry, Fort Hill; Jim Nuse, Frederick; Mike Galloway, Westminster.

All but one of the first team all-star berths were landed by only three schools. Martinsburg placed four players and Fort Hill three on the 13-man squad chosen by the league's coaches. Frederick rounded out the mythical aggregation with one selectee.

Ironically Allegany's Campers, who tied both Fort Hill and Martinsburg during the campaign, were shut out in the first team balloting and got only one man on the second unit.

Member Since 1956

Westminster, which has been a member of the league since its reorganization in 1956, will terminate membership at the end of the school year, and will participate in the CVAL track meet in May.

Westminster grid coach Herb Ruby made a terse statement in which he said the school's athletic council felt it would be in the best interest of the sports program to withdraw from the league.

But principal Steve Lerda, president of the league this year, cast more light on the matter by informing the gathering that the action was taken because the Owls have decided to confine their opposition to schools within a 50-mile radius of the Carroll County community.

When asked by Dr. Wayne Hill, principal of Fort Hill High, if this were the primary consideration, Lerda replied affirmatively.

Alco, Sentinels Dropped

As a result, Allegany and Fort Hill will be severed from Westminster's schedule. Handley High of Winchester will also be dropped.

Allegany coach Ed Schwarz raised the point that Westminster has a contractural obligation to meet his team in Cumberland next year. Lerda assured Schwarz the matter will be taken up with his school's athletic council, but it is doubtful if the two will meet on the gridiron again.

Dr. W. Ardell Haines, Allegany principal and CVAL secretary-treasurer, expressed his regret at losing Westminster as a league member, and added that it will be difficult for the Campers to find an equivalent replacement to fill the open date on the schedule.

Fort Hill coach Charlie Lattimer went on record as saying that the Sentinels have enjoyed their athletic relationship with the Westminster school.

Westminster is a member of the Tri-State Conference, which includes all the CVAL schools except Allegany and Fort Hill, and also Waynesboro, Pa.

Petry Unanimous Choice

Quarterback Phil Petry, who guided the South High Rebels to their perfect season, was a unanimous choice for the signal-calling slot on the all-star squad for the second straight year.

Both of South's fine ends — Dwight Guyton and Craig Etchison — were selected, in addition to tackle Albert Resh and guard Marvin Baker. The latter moves up from the second team, while Resh received honorable mention last season.

Colin Smith, Fort Hill halfback, was named to the first team for the second time, but the stock of several of last year's all-stars dropped.

Halfback Mike Harvey and center John Roy of Allegany, who were accorded first team honors last year, rated only honorable mention on the '62 squad. John Kinzer, Westminster guard dropped down to the second unit.

31 Get Mention

Fort Hill placed five gridders on the 14-man second team, and had three of its players cited for honorable mention. Seven Allegany boys are among the 31 on the honorable mention list.

Guard Carl (Bucky) Belt was the only Allegany player to be named on either of the first two units.

South Hagerstown, which finished with a 6-0 league mark and 9-0 overall record, was officially recognized as league champion for the 1962 season, and a large trophy was presented to Rebel coach Doug Cochran.

It was decided to stage the CVAL track meet on Saturday, May 4, at Frederick High School. Hal Moser, of the Frederick faculty, will be in charge of arrangements.

Section 7-2 Grid Team Wins Beall Elementary Title

Section 7-2 defeated Section 7-3 by the score of 24-6 in a recent game to win the football championship of Beall Elementary School.

The game was witnessed by the entire 7th grade and many parents who were visiting the school.

Results of the physical fitness test revealed that 46 per cent of the boys and 53 per cent of the girls passed all seven parts of the test.

For the boys, pull-ups seemed to be the most difficult while the girls had the most trouble with the broad jump.

Key State Witness Tells How Bribery Money Went To Cagers

Wagman Testifies He Mailed $3,250 To Niewierowski

By HENRY A. BLUMENTHAL
United Press International

RALEIGH, N. C. (UPI) — A key state witness returned to the stand Thursday to tell how bribery money passed down to athletes involved in an alleged nationwide conspiracy to fix basketball games.

Aaron (The Bagman) Wagman of New York, who earlier this week described himself as an "intermediary" in the game rigging, said prior to the Duke-North Carolina State game of Jan. 7, 1961, Dave Goldberg of St. Louis sent $2,000 via telegraph to a friend of Wagman. The friend then turned over the money to Wagman.

After the basketball game was decided within the point limit set by the "backer," Goldberg sent another $2,000 to Wagman via his friend, Wagman testified.

Players Split Loot

He said he took out $750 as his share and mailed the remaining $3,250 to North Carolina State cager Stan Niewierowski. Niewierowski said he split the money with another member of the team, Anton Muehlbauer.

Earlier in the day, Paul Franklin Walker Jr., a New York truck driver, testified he flew to North Carolina with $2,700 prior to a North Carolina State-University of Maryland game Feb. 13, 1960. He said two state players were paid to "shave points."

Walker said the money was paid to assure the final score would be within a four-point margin and the "backers" were pleased when the game turned out that way.

Walker said he got the money from Morris Heyison of Pittsburgh, Pa., and $500 of it went to "payoff man" Joseph Greene—contact between the players and the syndicate.

Also on the stand Thursday were Lou Barshak and Michael Siegal. Siegal said he attempted to influence a player at the University of Seattle and one at the University of Detroit without success.

Being tried under a 43-count indictment charging conspiracy to rig a number of North Carolina State basketball games are Steve Lekometros and Dave Goldberg of St. Louis.

Since the trial began Nov. 19, testimony has been taken from four State College players, a number of defendants, a representative of the Southern Bell Telephone Co., and State coach Everett Case.

Rigged Many Games

The defendants were alleged to have rigged games involving colleges from New York, New Jersey, North Carolina, South Carolina, Pennsylvania, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Verbal War Over Track Flares Anew

Coaches Of NCAA Take Slap At AAU

By JERRY GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP) — The verbal war for U.S. track control flared anew Thursday night with the NCAA's coaches federation charging a new coalition plan approved by the AAU reneged on the original agreement.

The AAU's 35-man executive board unanimously endorsed the track and field coalition earlier in the day and turned the plan over to its board of governors for expected approval Saturday.

The AAU plan emphasized that it will retain all control of U.S. participation in international competition. This brought a strong rebuttal from the U.S. Track and Field Federation consisting of coaches.

Two weeks ago the AAU and NCAA agreed at New York on a coalition plan designed to end 2½ years of bickering and insure strong U.S. representation in the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo.

Canham said a conference telephone call with other federation officials agreed the AAU endorsed plan was unsatisfactory.

"We agreed the New York coalition was based on five points," Canham said, "and any changing and eliminating now changes the whole concept of the agreement."

1. A coalition agreement between the AAU and the federation.

2. That a coalition would be formed which would have equal numbers-a new group in which it would take a two-thirds majority vote to control.

3. In 1964 the new coalition would seek with the AAU's blessing to have the International Amateur Athletic Federation recognize the new coalition as the governing body of track and field in the United States.

4. In turn, the federation would not claim jurisdiction over open athletes. It would be educational only and all other athletes would be under the AAU.

5. A coalition track meet would be held for the purpose of determining national teams for international meets.

The AAU's executive committee announcement said all track business of an international nature would continue to be conducted by the AAU.

"We will stay as the governing body because we are the only American group affiliated with the IAAF," said Louis J. Fisher, AAU president.

The IAAF is the world governing body for track and field.

Middies Rated Even Chance To Beat Army

Service Teams Meet 63rd Time

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Free-wheeling Navy is rated an even chance in quest of its fourth straight service football victory Saturday over an Army team eager to end the drought under new Coach Paul Dietzel.

Shorn of frills like bowl possibilities and high national ranking, the 63rd meeting of the academies has boiled itself down to a battle of super-charged squads whose supporters have whipped themselves into a frenzy.

President John F. Kennedy will be on hand for the nationally televised pageant—CBS, 1:30 p.m., EST—to which he'll add an innovation. For the first time the chief executive will walk to the middle of the field for the coin toss between captains Steve Hoy of Navy and John Ellerson of Army.

While the game will offer a contrast between the Middies' prototype attack and the methodical Cadet running offense, the schools present many similarities. Three-unit substitution systems, squad weights, optimism, good physical shape and enthusiasm are very much alike.

Navy's Wayne Hardin can become the first coach in Annapolis history to beat Army sour straight. Dietzel, hired specifically to end the Navy streak, hasn't let his Cadets forget their task for a moment. Army has won only two of the last eight and three of the past 12 meetings though it still leads the series 30-27-5.

In a three-way telephonic interview for Armed Services Radio and conducted by Air Force Academy Coach Ben Martin Thursday, Dietzel said:

"Old timers who have been on the post 35 to 40 years say the enthusiasm of the cadet corps this year is greater than they can ever remember. This team is more ready to play than it ever has been, is very loose and very confident."

"The kids are very high here," Hardin reported from Annapolis. "They are confident, feeling they are going to Philadelphia to cheer the team on to victory."

Major Leagues To Stage Only One All-Star Game

Plan Takes Effect In 1963; Players' Share 95 Per Cent

NEW YORK (UPI)—An agreement by major league baseball officials and player representatives to hold only one All-Star game a season instead of two was reached Thursday when the players were assured a larger share of the proceeds.

Announcement of the agreement was made by Commissioner Ford Frick following a meeting between major league officials and the player representatives.

Under the two-game arrangement, 60 per cent of the proceeds from both games went into the players' pension fund and the remaining 40 per cent was channeled into the commissioner's office central fund.

To get the players to agree to holding only one All-Star game instead of two, the owners agreed to increase the players' share to 95 per cent.

Two Since 1959

Since 1959 there have been two All-Star games each year. The players have been more anxious to continue that situation than the owners, because the men in uniform wanted the second-game receipts for their pension fund.

However, it is understood that in return for passing up this financial windfall, the players will receive from the owners several other considerations. This could take several forms — an increase in the percentage of World Series receipts that goes into the player pool, a boost in the minimum major league salary from the present $7,000, and certain other fringe financial benefits.

The players also concentrated in their meeting on schedule difficulties, it was understood. With both leagues now coast to coast and playing 162-game schedules, the players have been seeking to avoid arduous travel they consider unnecessary.

Many of the major league moguls were returning here Thursday night from attending the minor league meetings which concluded Thursday in Rochester.

When they open their own sessions, the owners will be faced with the players requests and with follow-up action on the business conducted at the minor league meetings.

Chief among the latter is the "player development contract" which was approved Thursday by the minors. Under this program, the majors will underwrite the operation of no fewer than 100 minor league teams in 1963.

Middies, Alumni Pay $3,500 For "Beat Army" Ad

At the foot of the huge ad, which appears in the Times edition of Nov. 30, is a small-print note reading: "Sponsored by the Brigade of Midshipmen — U.S. Naval Academy — No government or appropriated money is used for this advertisement."

Liston Will Make Home In Chicago

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A tractor-trailer pulled up to the home of heavyweight champion Charles (Sonny) Liston Thursday and began packing his furnishings for his move to Chicago.

The champion will leave for his new residence at 4900 S. Greenwood Ave., Chicago, by plane Friday. His wife, Geraldine, remaining behind to complete the move, will follow by plane Friday night

Liston scoffed at claims he was leaving Philadelphia because of police "harassment."

He said he was influenced to make his home in Chicago because of a job offer with the recreation department there. Liston said he is accepting the offer. His wife pointed out that Chicago will put them closer to relatives in St. Louis.

Harry E. Moran, 73, One-Time Pitcher For Detroit, Dies

BECKLEY, W. Va. (UPI)—Harry E. Moran, a prominent coal operator and one-time pitcher for the Detroit Tigers, died Wednesday night in a Beckley hospital. He was 73.

A native of Thayer, Fayette County, Moran once held extensive coal interests in the East. He was president of the Old Leccony Smokeless Fuel Co., Beckley; president of Lake and Export Coal Corp., New York City; executive vice president of Northeast Coal and Dock Co., Bucksport, Me., and vice president of Maine Coal Sales Co., Bangor, Me.

In 1943, Moran's Leccony company drove a 1½-mile tunnel through a mountain at Besoco to remove coal from a 1,800-acre tract which had been untapped before that time.

A graduate of Fishburn Military Academy in Virginia, Moran played for the Tigers around the time he graduated from Washington & Lee.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon in The Methodist Temple, Beckley, with burial scheduled for Oak Hill.

Dutch Meyer Wants To Retire In June

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — L. R. (Dutch) Meyer likes to hunt and fish. He figures a man can't be athletic director at a major college and still do those things.

The 64-year-old Meyer, who has been associated with Texas Christian University since 1918 as player, coach and athletic director, wants to retire on June 1, 1963.

"In the summers, I want to go up in the mountains to fish and piddle around during the winters in South Texas," he said.

Chancellor M. E. Sadler said no action has been taken on Meyer's request to go to pasture. Sadler said if Meyer does retire "we do not anticipate any changes in our coaching staff."

Machen Is Mentioned As Clay's Opponent

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—William Faversham, one of heavyweight Cassius Clay's managers, was reported Thursday to believe that Eddie Machen would be the next logical opponent for Clay.

Matchmaker Mario Spampinato said Faversham had informed Abe Acquistapace, San Francisco-San Jose promoter, that he would talk to him regarding a Machen-Clay fight before anyone else. Acquistapace recently guaranteed Clay $55,000 to meet Machen.

International, Pacific Coast Leagues Absorb American Association

Minor League Had Operated For 61 Years

Ints, PCL Expanded To 10 Clubs; 18 Minors Survive

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The International League and the Pacific Coast League absorbed the American Association and became two 10-club leagues Thursday in the most sweeping reorganization of the minors in baseball history.

The American Association, a pillar of the minors since 1902, yielded Dallas-Fort Worth, Oklahoma City and Denver to the Pacific Coast. Little Rock, which had replaced Louisville after the 1962 season, and Indianapolis moved into the reluctant International League, which finally gave in to pressure from the majors.

Under the terms of a far reaching new deal for the minors adopted Thursday, the majors will underwrite at least 100 minor league clubs in three classifications—Triple A, Double A and A.

The expanded Pacific Coast League and International account for the 20 Triple A clubs as planned. Each big league club, except Washington, has at least one farm club in either one of the Triple A leagues. Milwaukee has two—Toronto in the International and Denver in the PCL.

With the demise of the Association and Wednesday's folding of the Alabama-Florida League in Class D, the minors were down to 18 leagues. Four are Double A—the Texas, Eastern, South Atlantic and Mexican. All the others which used to be classed B, C or D are in Class A.

The impasse at the Triple A level was resolved suddenly after five days of endless meetings and arguments. The International Wednesday rejected all requests to expand to 10 or 12 clubs. During the night the league had a change of heart.

In any event the International League's holdover cities of Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Toronto, Richmond, Jacksonville, Atlanta and Columbus now have two new brothers—Little Rock and Indianapolis. Richardson said it will be decided later whether to operate the league in two divisions and whether the league will play 144, 153 or 162 games.

The fate of the Little World Series, normally played between the International and the Association, was to be determined later. The International League will meet in Indianapolis, Dec. 15, 16 to adopt a schedule.

Dewey Soriano, president of the Pacific Coast League, said his organization would meet in two weeks, probably in Seattle, to set up its operations. There were signs that the Pacific Coast League might have two divisions—Dallas-Fort Worth, Oklahoma City, Denver, Salt Lake City and San Diego in one section and Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, Spokane and Hawaii in the other.

4,000 Miles Apart

The minors turned down three amendments designed to revive the old bonus rule that would have made big league clubs keep on their roster boys paid either $10,000 to $12,000. The only proposal that came close was one suggested by George Weiss of the New York Mets. That got nine votes but needed 15 to pass. It would have set up a policing system permitting the commissioner's office to examine income tax records of bonus babies and their families.

By the narrow margin of just one point, Florida A&M's all-conquering Rattlers were crowned Thursday the small college football champions of 1962 in the Associated Press' final poll.

The Rattlers, led by halfback flash Robert (China Doll) Paremore of Tallahassee, Fla., swept all nine of their regular season contests and extended their victory streak to 21 games. The victory chain was started in 1960.

In the final balloting by a national panel of eight sports writers, Florida A&M received two first-place votes and 67 points. Wittenberg, Ohio, University (9-0-0) was a point back with one first-place vote and 66 points. Central Oklahoma State (9-0-0) was third with two first-placers and 54 points and Southern Mississippi (9-1-0) fourth with a first-placer and 44 points.

Rangers Drub Wings

DETROIT (UPI) — Little Camille Henry scored two goals playing on the New York Rangers rejuvenated front line as the Rangers handed the first place Detroit Red Wings their worst drubbing of the season, 5-0, in a National Hockey League contest Thursday night.

The defeat, before 9,882 disgruntled Olympia fans, was only the second at home for the Wings against seven victories.

Strub Heads TRA

Strub succeeds E. E. Dale Shaffer, who for the past two years headed the national association of 46 race tracks. The Taconic Racing Association of Pownal, Vt., Thursday became the 47th member of TRA.

At the convention's closing session Thursday the TRA elected Leon Levy of Atlantic City to fill the post of secretary, vacated by Strub.

Checking Stations Designated In Region One For Deer Season

Twelve Are Listed; 7-Day Season Opens Saturday At Sunrise

Twelve checking stations have been designated for Region One, comprising Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties, during the Maryland deer season which opens tomorrow at sunrise and closes Saturday, December 8, at sunset.

In Allegany County hunters may have their kills checked at the Maryland State Police Barracks, LaVale; Hess' Service Station, Oldtown; Shipway's Service Station on the top of Green Ridge on Route 40 and Jake's Service Station, Westernport.

Four Garrett Stations

Garrett County's stations are Carroll Miller's Sinclair Station, Oakland; Matt Storey's Tavern, Deep Creek Lake; Murphy's Service Station, Friendsville, and Edwards' Garage, Grantsville. The three stations in Washington county are Hoffman's Tavern, Sideling Mountain on Route 40; Younker's Service Station at the bridge in Hancock and H. E. Ankeney's Tavern, Clear Spring.

If pleasant weather continues there probably will be a record number of hunters in the woods throughout Allegany County.

Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, points out that deer can be found on every mountain in the county and it will not be necessary for most of the local nimrods to hunt on the Green Ridge State Forest where 10,000 to 15,000 hunters from down state are expected. Last season, he said, a total of 262 bucks were killed within a distance of 12 miles of Cumberland.

All hunters must have a deer stamp attached to the reverse side of their hunting license. No small game hunting is permitted in Allegany and Garrett counties during the deer season. Hunters are required to unload their rifles after sundown and all rifles must meet the requirements of 1,200 pounds of muzzle energy. If a hunter is in doubt about his rifle he is advised to contact a game warden. All hunters are urged to wear bright colors of yellow or red.

All deer must be checked at a designated station and only bucks with visible antlers of not less than three inches are legal.

The Past Records

The all-time records for one season were established in 1960 when 780 deer were slain in Allegany County, 802 in Garrett and 410 in Washington. The high for a single day in Allegany was 422 on opening day in 1960.

Last year the season totals were 655 bucks in Allegany, 638 in Garrett and 400 in Washington. Allegany's daily high was 358 on the first day.

Vancouver's Debts Amount To $75,000

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP)—The Vancouver Mounties, once one of the best-drawing teams in minor league baseball, were left Thursday with no league, no players and $75,000 in debts.

The Mounties were out in the cold when it was decided at a meeting of the minor leagues in Rochester, N.Y., that the International and Pacific Coast Leagues would absorb the old American Association and operate as two 10-team leagues.

George Norgan, president of the Vancouver club, said the basic reason for the team being dropped from the PCL was its failure to get a working agreement with a major league club. But the Mounties were also criticized for poor attendance in recent years. Other teams didn't like the traveling expenses involved.

Leafs Tie Canadiens

MONTREAL (UPI) — The Montreal Canadiens blasted home three goals in the first three minutes of the final period Thursday night to salvage a 4-4 tie with the Toronto Maple Leafs.

New York City still has 60 horses, 50 drivers and three stables in the carriage-cab business.

Erie's Uhlander Is Batting Champ

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI)—Outfielder Ted Uhlander of the second place Erie Sailors hit .342 to capture the New York-Pennsylvania League batting title during the 1962 baseball season.

Despite Uhlander's heroics, Pennsylvania's only representative in the six-team class D circuit lost the pennant by one game to the Jamestown Tigers. The third-place Auburn Yankees walked off with the team batting championship, .284 to .269 for the Tigers, final statistics disclosed.

Coalition Plan Approved By AAU

DETROIT (AP) — The AAU's 35-man executive committee endorsed Thursday coalition plan that would end its long squabble with the NCAA for control of track and field in the United States.

Although much of the actual working rules of the coalition are still to be worked out, the move virtually insures a strong U.S. team in the 1964 Olympic Games in Tokyo.

The AAU hailed the coalition as a harmonious solution to the 2½-year verbal war with the NCAA and its coaches for the control of track.

The executive committee approved the coalition after insuring that the AAU will retain its position as the U.S. governing body for international competition.

40 Seek Coaching Job At Colorado

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Director of Athletics Harry Carlson said Thursday about 40 persons have applied for the football coaching post at the University of Colorado.

The university, a member of the Big Eight Conference, has had two changes in the head coach's position in less than nine months.

Carlson said the new coach may be named before the unofficial Jan. 15 deadline set by university officials.

Sonny Grandelius was dismissed as Colorado coach last March after he was accused of violations of the NCAA code. William (Bud) Davis, who had had no previous college coaching experience, was named his successor.

Bruins Blanked, 5-0

BOSTON (UPI) — Chicago goalie Glenn Hall blanked the Boston Bruins 5-0 Thursday night for his third shutout of the season to boost the Black Hawks into a first-place tie with Detroit in the National Hockey League.

The Red Wings lost to the New York Rangers Thursday night to give them an 11-5-4 record compared to Chicago's 10-6-6 mark in the NHL. Each them has 26 points.

International, Pacific Coast Leagues Absorb American Association

Minor League Had Operated For 61 Years

Ints, PCL Expanded To 10 Clubs; 18 Minors Survive

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The International League and the Pacific Coast League absorbed the American Association and became two 10-club leagues Thursday in the most sweeping reorganization of the minors in baseball history.

The American Association, a pillar of the minors since 1902, yielded Dallas-Fort Worth, Oklahoma City and Denver to the Pacific Coast. Little Rock, which had replaced Louisville after the 1962 season, and Indianapolis moved into the reluctant International League, which finally gave in to pressure from the majors.

Under the terms of a far reaching new deal for the minors adopted Thursday, the majors will underwrite at least 100 minor league clubs in three classifications—Triple A, Double A and A.

The expanded Pacific Coast League and International account for the 20 Triple A clubs as planned. Each big league club, except Washington, has at least one farm club in either one of the Triple A leagues. Milwaukee has two—Toronto in the International and Denver in the PCL.

With the demise of the Association and Wednesday's folding of the Alabama-Florida League in Class D, the minors were down to 18 leagues. Four are Double A—the Texas, Eastern, South Atlantic and Mexican. All the others which used to be classed B, C or D are in Class A.

The impasse at the Triple A level was resolved suddenly after five days of endless meetings and arguments. The International Wednesday rejected all requests to expand to 10 or 12 clubs. During the night the league had a change of heart.

In any event the International League's holdover cities of Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Toronto, Richmond, Jacksonville, Atlanta and Columbus now have two new brothers—Little Rock and Indianapolis. Richardson said it will be decided later whether to operate the league in two divisions and whether the league will play 144, 153 or 162 games.

The fate of the Little World Series, normally played between the International and the Association, was to be determined later. The International League will meet in Indianapolis, Dec. 15, 16 to adopt a schedule.

Dewey Soriano, president of the Pacific Coast League, said his organization would meet in two weeks, probably in Seattle, to set up its operations. There were signs that the Pacific Coast League might have two divisions—Dallas-Fort Worth, Oklahoma City, Denver, Salt Lake City and San Diego in one section and Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, Spokane and Hawaii in the other.

4,000 Miles Apart

Incidentally, the distance of Oklahoma City to Honolulu is about 4,000 miles.

The minors turned down three amendments designed to revive the old bonus rule that would have made big league clubs keep on their roster boys paid either $10,000 to $12,000. The only proposal that came close was one suggested by George Weiss of the New York Mets. That got nine votes but needed 15 to pass. It would have set up a policing system permitting the commissioner's office to examine income tax records of bonus babies and their families.

BAGS ELK AND AOUDAD — James E. Swisher, of Levels, Hampshire County, W. Va., is shown with a 600-pound elk and a 150-pound Aoudad which he killed recently on a hunting trip to Hunter's Haven near Walland, Tennessee. The elk had a 10-point, 33-inch rack. An Aoudad is a wild sheep. The hunting party bagged five wild boar. Gordon Singhas, Fairfax, Va., got two with one shot, William Ansel, Jr., Springfield, W. Va., also shot two and Swisher got one, the largest with 2½ inch tusks. Mr. Swisher is in the fruit and stock farms business at Levels. The guide on the hunt was Robert Lee Whitehead, chief guide of Hunter's Haven.

Four Groups Bidding For Titan Franchise

BOSTON (UPI) — American Football League Commissioner Joe Foss said Thursday that four different groups were bidding for the financially ailing New York Titan franchise and that he expected it to be sold "any day now."

Foss, here to address a sports luncheon of the Broadcasting Executives Club of Boston, said two of the four bidding groups for the Titan franchise were "very close" to reaching agreement with present owner Harry Wismer. Wismer has been demanding 12 million for his franchise.

Mrs. Smith and her 11-year-old son, Eugene Smith, were taken to Bedford County Memorial Hospital, Bedford, where she was treated for contusions of the chest and stomach, and her son for abrasions of the right knee.

Secrets Of Charm

Hollywood — or at least that part of it personified by the people who make pictures — may have moved its location to the farthest points on the globe, but I'm willing to bet a lot of things about it haven't changed.

For example, I'll wager that wherever you find Hollywood today, you'll also find those famous "Hollywood slantboards." Whoever invented this system for resting and relaxing has probably been remembered in the prayers of more stars than the universe holds. Neither temperament, tension nor torture corseting and costuming can prevent the slantboard from working its appointed wonders for body and mind.

Actually, the principle of the slant needed no inventor. It just grew. Having enough firm support to be able to lean back and go limp all over most likely evolved in the mind of Man shortly after Eden . . . and after he was tipped off by Woman.

It's a principle worth copying—especially during the holiday season when you'll be getting less of what you'll be needing more of—rest, relaxation and the re-stimulation they can kindle in your body and spirit.

The most beneficial way to get a new slant, in my opinion, is to lie down on a firm but comfortable bed or couch propped in such a way that the feet are higher than the head. Be sure that clothing is loose, that the room is darkened (eyepads will help) and that the mind is ready and willing to spare at least ten minutes toward thinking about NOTHING.

This is how swollen feet and ankles snap back to shape, this is the manner in which blood circulation is re-routed to awaken and re-inspire the brain cells . . . and restore a becoming rosy flush, Nature's own, to the complexion.

Real Spartans will lie right on the floor, with a couple of pillows supporting the derriere and the ankles resting on a desk-high piece of furniture. (A towel turbanning the head, perhaps enclosing a much needed oil treatment for the hair, will cushion that noggin.)

You might also rig up a real Hollywood slantboard to lean against upright when you are fully dressed in party regaila. (Some of my Powers Models have converted their ironing boards thus, to individual specifications, with aid from husbands in determining comfortable angle and proper bracing.)

Then you can arrange to begin your grooming ten minutes earlier than usual, so that you will have that extra time to lean back and collect your energy and enthusiasm for the party ahead.

Reapportioning Bill Passage Is Predicted

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—State Atty. Gen. C. Donald Robertson, who ruled last year that the Legislature's present system of apportionment violated provisions of the State Constitution, has predicted that the 1963 Legislature will pass a legislative reapportionment bill.

Robertson told a meeting of the Kanawha County Bar Association that he would rather see the Legislature initiate reapportionment on its own than have the courts step in.

"I feel sure that the Legislature that meets in January will undertake reapportionment of the House and perhaps the Senate," he said.

The attorney general in referring to a move by the Kanawha County Court to initiate a court suit to force the reapportionment, said if a suit is filed, a court would postpone a ruling to give the Legislature time to act in the matter.

A proposed amendment to the constitution that would have legalized the presen' method of apportioning the House, giving each county at least one seat, was rejected by the voters in the Nov. 6 election.

Play Tournament Directors

Cub Pack 56 Presents Displays

FROSTBURG — Roll Call and Inspection featured at the meeting recently of Cub Pack 56 sponsored by St. Michael's School PTA.

Each den presented a display portraying the monthly theme "Buckskin Pioneers." Den 3 under the supervision of Mrs. Pauline Ross and Cubs, Dale Ross, Kevin Kenney, Joe Delaney, Paul Sullivan, Steven Youngerman, Phillip Kenney and Richard Jenkins had the opening of the Pack Meeting.

Den 1 under the supervision of Mrs. Margaret Jackson and Den Chief Stephen Kenney closed the meeting with Cubs Mark Jackson, Steven Struntz, Charles Eberly and Paul Binotte.

Cubmaster Paul Jenkins asked permission for the pack to purchase a pack flag, also that the cubs were gathering toys for a basket to be distributed for Christmas. It was announced that three training classes would be held: Nov. 28; December 5 and December 12 at St. Mary's Oldtown Road, Cumberland, beginning at 7:30 p. m. each day. Anyone in the pack is welcome to attend.

West Virginia To Seek Bids On Road Projects

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — The State Road Commission announced Thursday it will open bids Dec. 18 on eight projects in six counties, including construction of 20.6 miles of highway and five bridges. The work is expected to cost about $4.5 million.

In a Wood County project, bids are being sought for the relocation of 13,021 feet of 14-inch pipeline along and crossing Interstate 77 east of Parkersburg.

The bridge projects include construction of twin structures to carry Interstate 81 over W. Va. 45 in Berkeley County and construction of a span to carry Interstate 64 over Twelvepole Creek and the Norfolk and Western Railway tracks in Wayne County.

The other bridges include construction of a span to carry Secondary 11 over Thorny Creek in Pocahontas County, and relocation of 1.15 miles of W. Va. 20 near Pine Grove, Wetzel County, and construction of a bridge.

Bids also will be received for construction of 1.8 miles of I-81 from W. Va. 45 to Secondary 15 in Berkeley County and about one-half mile of W. Va. 45, all in one contract.

The sixth project is for construction of about 16 miles of Secondary 15 between Alvon and the Pocahontas County line in Pocahontas County.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was fascinated by the letter from the woman whose husband believed that every human was an animal in a previous life. He kept pointing out to their daughter the physical characteristics of her boy friends and comparing them with baboons, pigs and so on.

I will go him one better—humans often behave like the animals they resemble. My father, for example, not only looked like a mule, he acted like one. He was stubborn and inflexible. My dear little mother had squirrel-like features. She was fast-moving, sensitive and a great saver for the future.

My sister Rita resembled a cat. She had a purring voice, great grey eyes and absolutely no loyalty. Rita married four times—each time for more money.

I married a man who had a thin face, pointed ears and beady eyes. He turned out to be a rat in more ways than one.

I've seen many pictures of you, Ann, and I think you look like a lamb. —FOOD FOR THOUGHT

DEAR FOOD: So I look like a lamb, do I? Considering the other possibilities that's not ba--a-a-aa--aaa-aad.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a girl, 19, who has lived at home all my life but I can truthfully say I don't know my mother. We are polite to each other but we've never had a real conversation about anything.

It seems odd to me that I would crave motherlove at this age. Is it normal? I never recall that my mother ever held me on her lap or kissed me. Through the years her remarks have been either critical or trivial. I am a top student and have always done well in school. People speak highly of me — everyone, except my mother, that is. I can't remember her ever giving me a compliment.

My mother is a fine woman and greatly respected in the community. I've never told a soul that she is like a stranger to me. Somehow I feel better for having told you. Is there any way I can improve our relationship?

—GRACE

DEAR GRACE: If you are 19 and have never had a real conversation with your mother I doubt that you will ever have one.

Cold people are usually unhappy and desperately lonely. They would be different if they could, but they don't know how. You will probably always crave mother-love, but the love for a husband and children will fill the void. My only advice is to start early to communicate with your children. Break the ice-chain in your own generation.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your advice to Bonnie was excellent. When a wife says her husband has always been faithful and well-behaved, is home every night, and then suddenly she finds a woman's sweater and a pair of high-heeled shoes in the back seat of the car, she SHOULD confront him with it.

I was in the same spot a few years back and luckily, an unexpected turn of events saved me.

My husband went to New Orleans to attend a convention. They thought it would be a cute idea to slip a pair of black lace panties into his suitcase. Of course I found the panties when I unpacked. They had been strategically placed with his pajamas.

When I handed "the evidence" to him he swore he knew nothing about it. I didn't believe him and said so. Then the phone rang. One of his buddies who was in on the prank had told his wife about it. She persuaded him the gag might lead to serious trouble so he called me.

If I had said nothing and that phone call had not come, I would have believed the worst.

Taylor County Race Decided By 12 Votes

GRAFTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Democrats will hold a 76-24 edge in the House of Delegates during the 56th Legislature as a result of the completion of a vote recount in Taylor County.

County election officials conducting a recount since Monday, said Thursday votes recorded in the Nov. 6 general election, including a count of all challenged ballots, showed Shriver edged Weekley 2,890 to 2,878.

A recount was started when a new check after the election gave the two nominees a tie vote at 2,873 apiece. The unofficial tally on election night showed Shriver ahead by one vote at 2,872.

Kiwanis Club Marks Start In Keyser

KEYSER — A look at West Virginia's forests as a triple asset of beauty, industrial uses and tourist attractions formed the basis of a talk given Wednesday night to members of the Keyser Kiwanis Club as they observed their twelfth anniversary and "Charter Night" celebration at the Moose Home.

Maurice G. Brooks, professor of wildlife management at West Virginia University, Morgantown, told the audience the state has one of the finest hardwood forest regions in the world right in this locale. There is also a combination of oak and pine forests where wildlife thrives because of its need for shelter, a place for reproduction, food and water, he said.

"As we leave the Eastern Panhandle and climb Allegheny Front, it is wonderful to see the transition in the forest. At the top we enter a forest of red spruce, a tree entirely at home in Canada, and inhabited by mammals that are common in that country.

The speaker was introduced by James T. Handlan, program chairman. Toastmaster was President Edward Daskal and the welcome was given by President-elect Alan Paine. Rev. Millard Floyd, pastor of Calvary EUB Church, sang "The Lord's Prayer" as the invocation and later offered "Danny Boy" and "I Love Life." He was accompanied by Miss Bernadine Rollins, who also entertained with piano selections during the meal. Charles Whitehill directed group singing and Joseph Wimer led the flag salute.

Among Kiwanis representatives introduced were Lt. Gov. and Mrs. Earl Bush, Petersburg; Dr. and Mrs. Albert Cook, Cumberland, and members of the two clubs. Dr. Cook was a delegate from his organization when the Keyser club was chartered in 1950. William Snyder and Donald Slater represented the Key Club of Keyser High School.

Frostburg CUF Reaches 82.1 Per Cent

FROSTBURG — The Frostburg area drive in the sixth County United Fund campaign, with the Community Division setting the pace, has reached 82.1 per cent of its 1962 goal.

A total of $13,551.30 was counted during the third official campaign audit, nearly $1,500 more than in the third audit two weeks earlier. The area goal is $16,500.

With another audit upcoming, Kruson forecast the area would move closer to its goal. He urged campaign lieutenants to continue pushing toward the goal.

The audit showed that the Business Division has attained 87 per cent of its $1,200 goal with a total of $1,043.50. The Classified Division for employe groups followed with 85.9 per cent. Employe groups have contributed gifts totaling $4,446.30 with a goal of $5,200.

Opening lead: Ten of ♠

A bad trump break produces an unnerving effect on a great many declarers. South reduced a laydown game contract to eight tricks in today's hand—all because the adverse trumps responded in an uncharitable manner.

North and South could have taken 11 tricks at a no trump contract, but the hands were constructed in such a manner that it was perfectly natural to glide into four hearts.

When West opened the ten of spades and the dummy was spread, it appeared to declarer that he was in a very comfortable position. He played a low spade from the North hand and East won the trick with the queen. A switch was made to the jack of clubs and South put up the ace.

A low trump was led to the jack and, when East showed out, a complication had set in. In order to prevent West from taking a trick in hearts, declarer returned to his hand with the queen of diamonds in order to lead a small heart. West's trump spot was covered by North's eight, and the king of hearts was cashed next.

When declarer attempted to return to his hand with the jack of diamonds to draw the remaining hearts, West administered a rude jolt by producing a trump. He shifted to a spade and, tho South put up the ace, he could not get out of the dummy without surrendering the lead. The defenders were able to take another spade trick, a club, and a second diamond ruff. The outcome was a two trick defeat.

Declarer had lost sight of his objective which was to take 10 tricks. After the opening lead is made, it appears as if South can win 11 tricks: five hearts, four diamonds, and a spade, and a club. When the bad news in trumps makes itself known, declarer should abandon any attempt to score an overtrick in the interests of safety. He can afford to draw four rounds of trump, leaving West with the ten of hearts while he proceeds to run the diamonds. If his opponent chooses to trump in, South will still take five hearts, three diamonds, and the two black aces.

USS Firms Prices

U.S. Steel Corp. has revised its method of pricing secondary sheet which some industry sources said will result in the first firming of steel prices in several months. These sources say the net result of the new price list is an increase because price increases outweigh cuts, particularly on the fastest selling items.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—Bette Davis is not going to have to take out any more ads trying to find work as a movie star. Due to the sensational success of "Whatever Happened to Baby Jane?" her old employer (and sometimes enemy) Jack Warner is right this moment having a new film written for her.

It's "Dead Pigeon", by Alfred Beich, and William H. Wright, who will produce it, has fond hopes of getting it into work right after the first of the year.

"Dead Pigeon" is another thriller and Bette, who is currently rushing from TV show to TV show, is chillingly delighted with it.

The arrival of Elvis Presley in Memphis to spend the Christmas holidays was just in time for him to receive word that he has been named the top male singer in the world by the London New Musical Express, largest musical publication in England, and probably the entire world.

Apparently the people in one small town in New Mexico feel the same way about Elvis. The singer and five of his buddies stopped there en route to Memphis, and were so hemmed in by fans that it took them an hour to get started again. Elvis and his buddies are on a bus equipped with sleeping and eating quarters, and after their experience in New Mexico the boys had meals on the wheels.

That excellent young actor, Harry Guardino, is leaving town but for the most exciting of career reasons. He's going to co-star on Broadway with Kim Stanley in "Natural Affection" and since the show is by William Inge, I'm sure Harry's fate will be happier than was Jane Fonda's back in the big town, or Angie Dickinson's and Jan Sterling's recently.

Those girls shows closed in a matter of days but Bill Inge, who wrote "Come Back, Little Sheba", "Picnic", "Bus Stop" and others knows how to write plays that win critics and enthrall the public.

This comes from Missouri—Missouri Productions, I mean—and the news is that that handsome cowhand, Robert Taylor, is going to ride the range right back where he started.

Meaning MGM. Bob will star in "Cattle King", an adventure picture of Wyoming in 1882—the kind of outdoor, action film he's always liked. Nat Holt will produce, and who do you think will be Bob's love interest?

Joan Caulfield, who hasn't worked in much too long. "Cattle King" starts rolling Monday up at Lone Pine, California, U.S.A., that is. Praise be, there are no "lone pines" in Europe.

When West opened the ten of spades and the dummy was spread, it appeared to declarer that he was in a very comfortable position. He played a low spade from the North hand and East won the trick with the queen. A switch was made to the jack of clubs and South put up the ace.

A low trump was led to the jack and, when East showed out, a complication had set in. In order to prevent West from taking a trick in hearts, declarer returned to his hand with the queen of diamonds in order to lead a small heart. West's trump spot was covered by North's eight, and the king of hearts was cashed next.

When declarer attempted to return to his hand with the jack of diamonds to draw the remaining hearts, West administered a rude jolt by producing a trump. He shifted to a spade and, tho South put up the ace, he could not get out of the dummy without surrendering the lead. The defenders were able to take another spade trick, a club, and a second diamond ruff. The outcome was a two trick defeat.

Declarer had lost sight of his objective which was to take 10 tricks. After the opening lead is made, it appears as if South can win 11 tricks: five hearts, four diamonds, and a spade, and a club. When the bad news in trumps makes itself known, declarer should abandon any attempt to score an overtrick in the interests of safety. He can afford to draw four rounds of trump, leaving West with the ten of hearts while he proceeds to run the diamonds. If his opponent chooses to trump in, South will still take five hearts, three diamonds, and the two black aces.

USS Firms Prices

U.S. Steel Corp. has revised its method of pricing secondary sheet which some industry sources said will result in the first firming of steel prices in several months. These sources say the net result of the new price list is an increase because price increases outweigh cuts, particularly on the fastest selling items.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—Bette Davis is not going to have to take out any more ads trying to find work as a movie star. Due to the sensational success of "Whatever Happened to Baby Jane?" her old employer (and sometimes enemy) Jack Warner is right this moment having a new film written for her.

It's "Dead Pigeon", by Alfred Beich, and William H. Wright, who will produce it, has fond hopes of getting it into work right after the first of the year.

"Dead Pigeon" is another thriller and Bette, who is currently rushing from TV show to TV show, is chillingly delighted with it.

The arrival of Elvis Presley in Memphis to spend the Christmas holidays was just in time for him to receive word that he has been named the top male singer in the world by the London New Musical Express, largest musical publication in England, and probably the entire world.

Apparently the people in one small town in New Mexico feel the same way about Elvis. The singer and five of his buddies stopped there en route to Memphis, and were so hemmed in by fans that it took them an hour to get started again. Elvis and his buddies are on a bus equipped with sleeping and eating quarters, and after their experience in New Mexico the boys had meals on the wheels.

That excellent young actor, Harry Guardino, is leaving town but for the most exciting of career reasons. He's going to co-star on Broadway with Kim Stanley in "Natural Affection" and since the show is by William Inge, I'm sure Harry's fate will be happier than was Jane Fonda's back in the big town, or Angie Dickinson's and Jan Sterling's recently.

Those girls shows closed in a matter of days but Bill Inge, who wrote "Come Back, Little Sheba", "Picnic", "Bus Stop" and others knows how to write plays that win critics and enthrall the public.

This comes from Missouri—Missouri Productions, I mean—and the news is that that handsome cowhand, Robert Taylor, is going to ride the range right back where he started.

Meaning MGM. Bob will star in "Cattle King", an adventure picture of Wyoming in 1882—the kind of outdoor, action film he's always liked. Nat Holt will produce, and who do you think will be Bob's love interest?

Market Surges Upward After Mixed Session

NEW YORK (AP)—An upward surge at the close lifted the stock market into the plus column Thursday. For almost the entire session, prices had been mixed.

There was no apparent special reason for the late improvement. Some market analysts have been anticipating a steady or lower trend or a "period of consolidation." A good many losers dotted the list Thursday.

Trading again moved along at the same speedy pace that has characterized the market since the middle of last week. Volume totaled 5.81 million shares compared with 5.98 million Wednesday, the busiest day in five weeks. Thursday was the sixth consecutive 5-million plus share session. There has been no similar period of activity since the May market break.

Rails were among the better performers all day, perhaps the result of a court finding they have the right to change work rules in a move to eliminate jobs they consider unnecessary. The rail stocks were fractionally higher. Other leaders included the electronics, mail order-retail, chemicals and rubbers.

Steels, rising from 1962 lows during the last week, fell back fractionally. Utilities, airlines and drugs also were a bit lower. Motors, aircrafts, metals, tobaccos and oils were irregular.

The market averages reflected the upside edge. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained .9 at 241.1 (again the highest since 241.5 on May 16, with industrials and rails up 1.1 and utilities ahead .4.

The 1,318 issues traded made the market the broadest since 1,320 were traded July 10. There were 655 stocks advancing, 427 declining and 236 unchanged. There were 23 new highs and no new lows for 1962.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Wheat futures declined Thursday on the Chicago board of trade while corn and oats firmed and other futures were uneven.

Wheat closed off ⅝ to ⅞, corn up ⅛ to ⅞, oats unchanged to up 1, rye off ¾ to up ⅛, soybeans off ¼ to up ½, and drummed lard unchanged to off 10 points.

Trading was moderately active. Export business was slow with many dealers apparently cautious due to the possibility of a dock strike next month.

Wheat futures opened firm, but scattered selling soon dropped prices into minus ranges. Commercial houses accounted for most of the trade. Commission interests bought during the early rally.

A trade source estimated last week's wheat and flour exports at 8,602,000 bushels and the total since July 1 at 202,596,000 bushels against 284,982,000 for the same period last year.

Elevator houses were active buyers of December corn, and htere was much switching between December and deferred deliveries. Exporters sold 1,030,000 bushels of corn to Europe and 400,000 bushels to the Azores.

Oats were also firm as cash houses bought December and there was a mixed demand for distant months.

Soybeans were narrowly uneven. Meal futures worked mostly lower, while short covering firmed oil prices. Europe and Japan each took about 185,000 bushels of soybeans, according to reports.

Many dealers looked for rather large tenders on what Friday, the first day for issuing notices to deliver on December contracts. Only small tenders were expected on corn, oats and rye.

Outside markets were mixed.

Market Surges Upward After Mixed Session

NEW YORK (AP)—An upward surge at the close lifted the stock market into the plus column Thursday. For almost the entire session, prices had been mixed.

There was no apparent special reason for the late improvement. Some market analysts have been anticipating a steady or lower trend or a "period of consolidation." A good many losers dotted the list Thursday.

Trading again moved along at the same speedy pace that has characterized the market since the middle of last week. Volume totaled 5.81 million shares compared with 5.98 million Wednesday, the busiest day in five weeks. Thursday was the sixth consecutive 5-million plus share session. There has been no similar period of activity since the May market break.

Rails were among the better performers all day, perhaps the result of a court finding they have the right to change work rules in a move to eliminate jobs they consider unnecessary. The rail stocks were fractionally higher. Other leaders included the electronics, mail order-retail, chemicals and rubbers.

Steels, rising from 1962 lows during the last week, fell back fractionally. Utilities, airlines and drugs also were a bit lower. Motors, aircrafts, metals, tobaccos and oils were irregular.

The market averages reflected the upside edge. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained .9 at 241.1 (again the highest since 241.5 on May 16, with industrials and rails up 1.1 and utilities ahead .4.

The Dow Jones industrial average closed higher by .76 at 652.61 with its first plus reading of the day.

The 1,318 issues traded made the market the broadest since 1,320 were traded July 10. There were 655 stocks advancing, 427 declining and 236 unchanged. There were 23 new highs and no new lows for 1962.

American Stock Exchange prices were higher on volume of 1.66 million shares compared with 1.76 million Wednesday.

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Joint Meeting Is Called On Sewage Issues

Prather Asks Area Units To Attend

The status of Allegany County in regard to its sewage problems will be discussed at a meeting of state and county officials and members of county water and sewage commissions December 19 at 1:30 p.m. in City Hall Auditorium.

Dr. Perry F. Prather, director of the State Department of Health, and Robert M. Brown, chief of the Bureau of Environmental Hygiene for the department, have requested the meeting.

They will meet with the new state senator-elect, county delegates to the General Assembly, county commissioners, Mayor and City Council, Allegany County Sanitary Commission, LaVale Sanitary Commission and the County - City Water - Sewage Commission.

Timetable Slated

The discussion will center on the solution to county sewage problems and preparation of a timetable to meet those problems.

The conference here apparently will take the place of a meeting which had been planned in Baltimore to clarify the situation on the county's sewage problems.

At a meeting here Tuesday night, the Allegany County Sanitary Commission announced that projects on which it has been working will be continued, that the Bowling Green-Roberts Place sewage project should be under way by next spring or early next summer, and that the Cresaptown project shold be started within a year.

Is Proceeding

The LaVale Sanitary Commission over the weekend issued a statement saying it was proceeding with its plans without delay and that "should the City-County Water-Sewage plan become a reality, the element of time for the project to become effective precludes LaVale from awaiting this possibility."

The City - County Commission has urged the creation of an Allegany County Sewage Commission, empowered to handle all of the county's sewage and water problems and said money which would be spent for separate sewage treatment plants in various communities should be used instead to build interceptor sewers to existing treatment plants here and in Westernport.

Slotmen Hit Classification As Lotteries

Legality At Issue In Court Hearing

By TOM SEPPY

ELLICOTT CITY, Md. (AP) — Slot machine interests argued Thursday that defining gaming devices as lotteries and declaring them unconstitutional would eliminate from Maryland all amusement machines and gambling, including horse racing.

Wilson K. Barnes, attorney for Anne Arundel County beach operator Edgar S. Kalb, said the inclusion of slot and payoff pinball machines and bingo under the definition of a lottery would be "almost tantamount to a judicial atomic bomb."

Malcolm B. Smith, attorney representing the Citizens Committee of Anne Arundel County and 14 other taxpayers, disputed the argument, saying all gaming would not be illegal.

Horse racing, football pools and other contests where the judgment of the bettor is involved would not be considered lotteries, Smith said.

"Our theory is that games, devices and machines which have chance as their primary element are lotteries," he said.

The Citizens Committee is testing the legality of the acts which permit the Board of Anne Arundel County Commissioners to grant licenses for slot machines and other gaming devices.

Judge James Macgill, who normally sits in Howard County, is hearing the case. Final arguments were heard here Thursday because Judge Macgill said he was unable to travel to Annapolis, where the hearing opened Wednesday.

Brief To Be Filed

Smith said he had further points to make and would file them in a written brief within 15 days.

Judge Macgill said he would make no decision until he received Smith's brief and Barnes' reply if he wished to file one.

The case named the Board of Anne Arundel County Commissioners as defendant. Kalb, who frequently acts as spokesman for slot machine interests, is an intervening defendant.

Issues in the case included whether the gaming devices were lotteries, whether titles to the acts which authorized the county to issue licenses were sufficient to describe them, and whether the plaintiffs had a right to test the case in court.

Barnes disputed Smith's arguments that Maryland should follow the pattern of other states and declare the machines illegal.

"The other states had only one law and that covered lotteries," he said. "We have both gaming and lottery laws and the machines are licensed under the gaming law."

Constitutional Prohibition

Barnes also argued that the constitution merely prohibited the General Assembly from issuing lottery grants. He said it does not prohibit the General Assembly from giving the power to license amusement devices to the county commissioners.

Smith said the "spirit of the constitution was the prohibition of the same types of evils which lotteries brought."

"When the constitution was written, they did not have electrical devices to contend with," Smith declared.

On the other points Barnes said the titles were sufficient because the courts have held that the term "amusement device" covers both payoff and non-payoff machines.

Smith had argued that the titles were misleading in that they do not mention slot machines, bingo or wheels of fortune.

Barnes also said the group had no right to bring the case to court because it couldn't show it was being hurt by the machines.

"Their cure is not in the judicial arena," he said. "They should go to the political arena to fight their battle."

Junior Red Cross Begins Annual Gift Box Program

The annual American Junior Red Cross Gift Box Program is now under way in most county schools. Some church young people's groups are also participating, according to Mrs. Sara G. Lindsay, executive secretary of Allegany County Chapter, and Miss Margaret Doak, supervisor of elementary education for Allegany County Board of Education, chairman of the chapter's Junior Red Cross program.

The gift box program is an activity in which American young people in school and church groups prepare and send small, colorful boxes filled with useful articles to other lands for distributon to individual children in schools, institutions and refugee camps.

These cardboard boxes are purchased through the Red Cross Children's Fund, which also finances their overseas shipping costs. Gift contents are made or bought by the young people.

Countries selected to receive the boxes are determined by American Red Cross national headquarters on the basis of recommendations of the League of Red Cross Societies and overseas Red Cross personnel.

The boxes are sent in the hope of developing better relationships between children throughout the world.

The program began soon after World War I and spread to many parts of the world. During World War II and in early postwar years the greater number of these boxes were sent to war-devastated areas, where in addition to a friendly greeting, the articles in the boxes provided some measure of relief.

Today, the boxes are sent to children in many parts of the world chiefly as gestures of friendship and good will. Items included are designed primarily for personal enjoyment, although school and health supplies are still included. To emphasize the personal quality of the gift, the boxes bear a friendly greeting and an attractive cover.

More Senators To Be Sought For Suburbs

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The 1963 Maryland legislature will be asked to consider giving five additional state senators to the suburban areas surrounding Washington and Baltimore.

Sen.-elect Gilbert Gude, R-Montgomery, says he will introduce a bill to provide three additional senators who would run at-large in Baltimore, Howard and Anne Arundel counties, and two additional to run at-large in Montgomery and Prince Georges counties.

"I think this is the kind of approach we have got to use to get away from a provincial outlook on reapportionment," Gude said.

"These suburban counties all have problems in common, such as rapid transit and schools, and could be well represented by additional senators serving several counties."

He said the at-large posts could also provide a stepping stone from local to statewide office for those who serve in them.

Gude said he does not think that the legislature will go for a Senate reapportionment which would give each of the large counties an extra senator or two of its own. But he does think an at-large type of plan might be acceptable to some of the senators from smaller counties.

The legislature, in a court-ordered reapportionment last May, added 19 House seats for suburban areas but did not consider reapportionment of the Senate, in which each of the 23 counties and each of Baltimore city's six legislative districts is now represented by one senator.

The Maryland Committee for Fair Representation later tried to get the Court of Appeals to order that the Senate as well as the lower house must reflect population. The high court refused by a 4-3 decision which is now on appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Gov. Tawes has appointed a committee which is now considering a permanent reapportionment plan for the House of Delegates. There has been no indication whether it will recommend any expansion of the Senate.

Home Building Assn. Savings Now Insured

Shareholders of the Home Building and Loan Association Inc., 19 South Liberty Street, have been sent letters this week by Thomas Lohr Richards, association president, notifying them that the association has been approved by the board of directors of the Maryland Savings-Share Insurance Corporation for insurance.

The approval was for insurance of each savings account up to $20,000 beginning December 1. This corporation was authorized by the laws of the Maryland legislature this year and was designed to bring order and insurance to the building and loan business in Maryland.

Other officers and directors of the 22-year-old association are Dr. Leslie E. Daugherty, first vice president; John Park, second vice president; J. Edwin Keech, secretary-treasurer; Harry J. Barton and George K. Steiner, directors; Rosalie A. Crabtree, assistant secretary, and William Torkington, auditor.

81 Seniors Apply For PPG Scholarships

Test Scheduled Here Saturday

W. E. Dyck, Pittsburgh Plate Glass Foundation agent and works manager for Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's Cumberland plant, announced today that 81 high school senior boys and girls have filed applications for the Foundation's four-year scholarship to be awarded here for the first time next spring.

Students competing for the PPG Foundation scholarship represent the following high schools: Allegany, Fort Hill, Beall, LaSalle, Bruce, Ursuline Academy, St. Peter's, Valley, Catholic Girls Central, Mt. Savage, Oldtown and Ridgeley.

Mr. Dyck reminded students who have not taken the National Merit Scholarship qualifying test last March that they must take an alternate test Saturday at their nearest designated College Entrance Examination Board center in order to compete in the 1962-63 Foundation scholarship program.

The scholarship amount, valued up to $6,000, is to be determined by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation and will be related to the winner's actual need. The recipient may receive a scholarship ranging from $250 minimum yearly to $1,500 maximum annually during the four-year period.

Mr. Dyck also announced that the National Merit Scholarship qualifying test will be used in the 1963-64 PPG Foundation scholarship program. It will be offered to eligible students on Tuesday, March 5, or Saturday, March 9, depending on which date fits more conveniently into their high school programs.

He urged students who will be second-semester juniors and first-semester seniors next spring, to contact their high school principals at once to indicate their interest in taking the NMSQT next March. Mr. Dyck stated that PPG Foundation application blanks will be available in March 1963, for those students planning to compete in the 1963-64 scholarship program.

The scholarship competition is open to boys and girls graduating from area high schools and children of employes of PPG Company's plant, regardless of where they are attending high school.

Residents Use More Blood Than Donated

Bloodmobile Unit Here Wednesday

Allegany County residents received 859 pints of blood from Johnstown Red Cross Regional Blood Center during the first three months of the fiscal year beginning in July while producing 808 pints during Bloodmobile visits, plus 15 direct donors in the same period.

Mrs. Sara G. Lindsay, executive secretary of Allegany County chapter, cited these figures compiled by the Regional Center in stressing the importance of the community's participation in the chapter blood program.

During the three months, the county's quota was 548 pints of blood for five visits of the mobile unit. Although this quota was exceeded by 275 pints, county residents used 859 pints of blood or 36 more than donated. This included Miners Hospital, 110 pints; Memorial Hospital, 468 pints; Sacred Heart, 244 pints and out-of-region hospitals, 37 pints.

Mrs. Lindsay also stressed the fact that during October and November, quotas were not met. In October the mobile unit made two county visits with a quota of 250 pints, but only 209 were donated. The quota for four visits in November was 470 pints, and only 336 were collected.

Also during the three-month period county residents used 1,100 cc of serum albumin, a blood derivative, the second largest amount of any of the 48 hospitals in the Johnstown Region.

Approximately 30 per cent of the local chapter's operating budget supports the blood program for Allegany County residents in local and out-of-region hospitals. The blood these patients receive is a gift of a blood donor and the American Red Cross. N charge is made by the hospital or by any member of the medical staff to the recipient for the blood and blood products themselves, which are furnished by the local chapter blood program.

Replacements may be made for out-of-region patients through the home chapter of Red Cross. Such replacements are made on a pint-for-pint basis to all cooperating hospitals.

Patients in local hospitals receive blood without any replacement. However, in order to keep blood available for all residents at all times, recipients will make every effort to have replacements made at regular Bloodmobile visits.

The bloodmobile unit is scheduled to visit the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant Wednesday from 10 until 4 p.m. The quota for this stop is 200 pints. On Tuesday the Bloodmobile will be at the American Legion Home in Westernport from noon until 6 p.m. The quota there is 100 pints.

Blue Cross Asks 22.8% Rate Hike

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Blue Cross Plan asked the state Thursday for approval to increase hospitalization insurance premiums by an average 22.8 per cent.

If approved, it would be the fourth rate increase in five years. The non-profit hospital insurance group received increases in 1958 and 1959 and more recently a 17.9 per cent increase in 1960.

F. Douglass Sears, state insurance commissioner, immediately announced he would arrange public hearings on the proposal.

R. H. Dabney, executive director of Blue Cross, said the organization sustained a $1.1 million deficit during the fiscal year ended Oct. 31. The operating loss was made up from reserve funds which now contain $1.8 million.

Proposed increases range from as low as 68 cents for an individual group plan subscriber to as high as $2.06 for a non-group family subscriber.

The proposed increases would hike premiums for individual subscribers on the standard group plan from $3.80 to $4.88 and from $4.30 to $5.38 for those who are not members of a Blue Cross Group.

The largest increases would be levied against family subscribers raising standard group rates from $8.50 to $10.40 and from $9.00 to $11.06 for non-group subscribers.

The rate increases for the deductible plans follow the same patterns but increases are only about half those proposed for the standard plans.

Dabney said higher rates are "essential if we are to continue to cover, on a sound financial basis, the care costs of our subscribers."

Blue Cross was incorporated under a special act of the state legislature in 1937 and the first rates, covering a wide range of hospital services, ranged from 75 cents for an individual to $2 for a family.

The plan received the first of six rate increases in 1948.

Zoning Board Hears Conflict On Auto Yard

Reeves Seeks To Expand Area

Conflicting views on the proposed expansion of the Reeves Motor Company's area for storage and dismantling of used cars on State Route 135 east of Westernport were presented to the Allegany County Board of Appeals during a hearing at the Court House yesterday afternoon.

This conflict involved the operators of the business about one-and-one-half miles east of Westernport and three persons who live nearby who contend that the spreading automobile business is unsightly and is depreciating the value of their property.

The hearing lasted for nearly an hour and a half as the board heard testimony from five witnesses. They were questioned by Horace P. Whitworth Jr., attorney for the Reeves firm, and Jack I. Mullen, attorneys for the protestants.

Tenth Case

Everett G. Partridge, chairman of the board which was hearing its tenth case in nearly a year of operation, told the interested parties at the close of the hearing that a decision would be made as soon as possible and the parties will be notified.

Harry V. Reeves Sr., head of the firm, was the first witness. He said the property in question formerly was owned by Monroe Pierce but he bought it by deed dated August 16, 1960. Mr. Whitworth stressed that this was more than a year before the county's interim zoning ordinance became effective. The Reeves business was started in 1935.

Mr. Reeves said that he began to store some automobiles on this Pierce property even before the deed was recorded because there was an understanding that this was the purpose for acquiring the tract.

Although Mr. Whitworth contended in his argument to the board that there is a distinction between an auto dismantling yard and a junkyard, Mr. Reeves said in the course of his testimony he had another "junkyard" down the road.

Son Testifies

An elaboration of the elder Reeves' testimony was provided by his son, James Reeves, who is manager and foreman of the business. He pointed out that they began storing automobiles on the Pierce tract, which is at the road level, as soon as it was acquired. However, he acknowledged that only in the past six months have additional automobiles been stored on higher ground nearer the homes of the protestants.

The three property owners who testified were William M. McIntyre, Fred Downey and Arthur Ravenscroft.

All three live on a plateau north of State Route 135 and reached by a private road. Mr. McIntyre said that he built his home there in the spring of 1960. At that time, he said, he could not see the junked automobiles from his home. In the past six months trees have been removed and cars placed on the higher elevation, and he contends they have ruined his view.

Similar testimony was given by Mr. Downey, who built a home in the area about five years ago. Mr. Ravenscroft also has a home there and owns about 300 acres of land. All three contended that the Reeves' business is unsightly.

All said that it had been expanded to the hillside nearer their homes in the last six months.

Only two of the three board members were present for the hearing. They were Mr. Partridge and Wilbur Johnson. The third member, Ralph G. Cover, is away on vacation.

Gude said he does not think that the legislature will go for a Senate reapportionment which would give each of the large counties an extra senator or two of its own. But he does think an at-large type of plan might be acceptable to some of the senators from smaller counties.

The legislature, in a court-ordered reapportionment last May, added 19 House seats for suburban areas but did not consider reapportionment of the Senate, in which each of the 23 counties and each of Baltimore city's six legislative districts is now represented by one senator.

The Maryland Committee for Fair Representation later tried to get the Court of Appeals to order that the Senate as well as the lower house must reflect population. The high court refused by a 4-3 decision which is now on appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Gov. Tawes has appointed a committee which is now considering a permanent reapportionment plan for the House of Delegates. There has been no indication whether it will recommend any expansion of the Senate.

81 Seniors Apply For PPG Scholarships

Test Scheduled Here Saturday

W. E. Dyck, Pittsburgh Plate Glass Foundation agent and works manager for Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's Cumberland plant, announced today that 81 high school senior boys and girls have filed applications for the Foundation's four-year scholarship to be awarded here for the first time next spring.

Students competing for the PPG Foundation scholarship represent the following high schools: Allegany, Fort Hill, Beall, LaSalle, Bruce, Ursuline Academy, St. Peter's, Valley, Catholic Girls Central, Mt. Savage, Oldtown and Ridgeley.

Mr. Dyck reminded students who have not taken the National Merit Scholarship qualifying test last March that they must take an alternate test Saturday at their nearest designated College Entrance Examination Board center in order to compete in the 1962-63 Foundation scholarship program.

The scholarship amount, valued up to $6,000, is to be determined by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation and will be related to the winner's actual need. The recipient may receive a scholarship ranging from $250 minimum yearly to $1,500 maximum annually during the four-year period.

Mr. Dyck also announced that the National Merit Scholarship qualifying test will be used in the 1963-64 PPG Foundation scholarship program. It will be offered to eligible students on Tuesday, March 5, or Saturday, March 9, depending on which date fits more conveniently into their high school programs.

He urged students who will be second-semester juniors and first-semester seniors next spring, to contact their high school principals at once to indicate their interest in taking the NMSQT next March. Mr. Dyck stated that PPG Foundation application blanks will be available in March 1963, for those students planning to compete in the 1963-64 scholarship program.

The scholarship competition is open to boys and girls graduating from area high schools and children of employes of PPG Company's plant, regardless of where they are attending high school.

Residents Use More Blood Than Donated

Bloodmobile Unit Here Wednesday

Allegany County residents received 859 pints of blood from Johnstown Red Cross Regional Blood Center during the first three months of the fiscal year beginning in July while producing 808 pints during Bloodmobile visits, plus 15 direct donors in the same period.

Mrs. Sara G. Lindsay, executive secretary of Allegany County chapter, cited these figures compiled by the Regional Center in stressing the importance of the community's participation in the chapter blood program.

During the three months, the county's quota was 548 pints of blood for five visits of the mobile unit. Although this quota was exceeded by 275 pints, county residents used 859 pints of blood or 36 more than donated. This included Miners Hospital, 110 pints; Memorial Hospital, 468 pints; Sacred Heart, 244 pints and out-of-region hospitals, 37 pints.

Mrs. Lindsay also stressed the fact that during October and November, quotas were not met. In October the mobile unit made two county visits with a quota of 250 pints, but only 209 were donated. The quota for four visits in November was 470 pints, and only 336 were collected.

Also during the three-month period county residents used 1,100 cc of serum albumin, a blood derivative, the second largest amount of any of the 48 hospitals in the Johnstown Region.

Approximately 30 per cent of the local chapter's operating budget supports the blood program for Allegany County residents in local and out-of-region hospitals. The blood these patients receive is a gift of a blood donor and the American Red Cross. N charge is made by the hospital or by any member of the medical staff to the recipient for the blood and blood products themselves, which are furnished by the local chapter blood program.

Replacements may be made for out-of-region patients through the home chapter of Red Cross. Such replacements are made on a pint-for-pint basis to all cooperating hospitals.

Patients in local hospitals receive blood without any replacement. However, in order to keep blood available for all residents at all times, recipients will make every effort to have replacements made at regular Bloodmobile visits.

The bloodmobile unit is scheduled to visit the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant Wednesday from 10 until 4 p.m. The quota for this stop is 200 pints. On Tuesday the Bloodmobile will be at the American Legion Home in Westernport from noon until 6 p.m. The quota there is 100 pints.

Blue Cross Asks 22.8% Rate Hike

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Blue Cross Plan asked the state Thursday for approval to increase hospitalization insurance premiums by an average 22.8 per cent.

If approved, it would be the fourth rate increase in five years. The non-profit hospital insurance group received increases in 1958 and 1959 and more recently a 17.9 per cent increase in 1960.

F. Dougiass Sears, state insurance commissioner, immediately announced he would arrange public hearings on the proposal.

R. H. Dabney, executive director of Blue Cross, said the organization sustained a $1.1 million deficit during the fiscal year ended Oct. 31. The operating loss was made up from reserve funds which now contain $1.8 million.

Proposed increases range from as low as 68 cents for an individual group plan subscriber to as high as $2.06 for a non-group family subscriber.

The rate increases would affect only 30-day hospitalization rates on the standard and deductible plans.

The proposed increases would hike premiums for individual subscribers on the standard group plan from $3.80 to $4.88 and from $4.30 to $5.38 for those who are not members of a Blue Cross Group.

The largest increases would be levied against family subscribers raising standard group rates from $8.50 to $10.40 and from $9.00 to $11.06 for non-group subscribers.

The rate increases for the deductible plans follow the same patterns but increases are only about half those proposed for the standard plans.

The rate increase would become effective March 1. There are more than one million Blue Cross subscribers in Maryland.

Dabney said higher rates are "essential if we are to continue to cover, on a sound financial basis, the care costs of our subscribers."

Blue Cross was incorporated under a special act of the state legislature in 1937 and the first rates, covering a wide range of hospital services, ranged from 75 cents for an individual to $2 for a family.

The plan received the first of six rate increases in 1948.

Zoning Board Hears Conflict On Auto Yard

Reeves Seeks To Expand Area

Conflicting views on the proposed expansion of the Reeves Motor Company's area for storage and dismantling of used cars on State Route 135 east of Westernport were presented to the Allegany County Board of Appeals during a hearing at the Court House yesterday afternoon.

This conflict involved the operators of the business about one-and-one-half miles east of Westernport and three persons who live nearby who contend that the spreading automobile business is unsightly and is depreciating the value of their property.

The hearing lasted for nearly an hour and a half as the board heard testimony from five witnesses. They were questioned by Horace P. Whitworth Jr., attorney for the Reeves firm, and Jack I. Mullen, attorneys for the protestants.

Tenth Case

Everett G. Partridge, chairman of the board which was hearing its tenth case in nearly a year of operation, told the interested parties at the close of the hearing that a decision would be made as soon as possible and the parties will be notified.

Harry V. Reeves Sr., head of the firm, was the first witness. He said the property in question formerly was owned by Monroe Pierce but he bought it by deed dated August 16, 1960. Mr. Whitworth stressed that this was more than a year before the county's interim zoning ordinance became effective. The Reeves business was started in 1935.

Mr. Reeves said that he began to store some automobiles on this Pierce property even before the deed was recorded because there was an understanding that this was the purpose for acquiring the tract.

Although Mr. Whitworth contended in his argument to the board that there is a distinction between an auto dismantling yard and a junkyard, Mr. Reeves said in the course of his testimony he had another "junkyard" down the road.

Son Testifies

An elaboration of the elder Reeves' testimony was provided by his son, James Reeves, who is manager and foreman of the business. He pointed out that they began storing automobiles on the Pierce tract, which is at the road level, as soon as it was acquired. However, he acknowledged that only in the past six months have additional automobiles been stored on higher ground nearer the homes of the protestants.

The three property owners who testified were William M. McIntyre, Fred Downey and Arthur Ravenscroft.

All three live on a plateau north of State Route 135 and reached by a private road. Mr. McIntyre said that he built his home there in the spring of 1960. At that time, he said, he could not see the junked automobiles from his home. In the past six months trees have been removed and cars placed on the higher elevation, and he contends they have ruined his view.

Similar testimony was given by Mr. Downey, who built a home in the area about five years ago. Mr. Ravenscroft also has a home there and owns about 300 acres of land. All three contended that the Reeves' business is unsightly.

All said that it had been expanded to the hillside nearer their homes in the last six months.

Only two of the three board members were present for the hearing. They were Mr. Partridge and Wilbur Johnson. The third member, Ralph G. Cover, is away on vacation.
